

THE ALLIES SMASH GERMAN LINES IN GIGANTIC DRIVE

BRITISH AND FRENCH GAIN FIVE MILES IN NEW EFFORT TO FORCE GERMANS OUT OF FRANCE & BELGIUM

British Headquarters, In France, July 1.—Reports received from the front five hours after the combined French and British offense was launched against the German lines showed that the allies had captured the towns of La Boisselle, Serre and Montauban, and Curlu and Faviere woods. The main first line trenches over the entire front under attack are reported to have been stormed and at various points the fighting has reached the main second line.

These reports show that the French and British, at the points of their farthest advance have broken through a distance of more than five miles beyond the first German trenches.

The British are endeavoring to surround Thiepval, and at other points an intense struggle is under way for towns and villages. Reports from the front indicate that the important German position at Fricourt may be cut off.

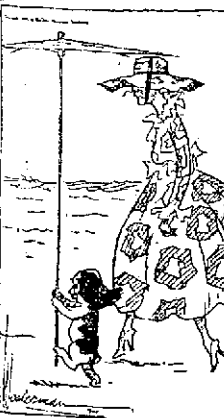

British Headquarters, In France, July 1.—A tremendous British offensive was launched at half past seven this morning over a front extending twenty miles north of the Somme. The assault was preceded by a terrific bombardment. The British troops already have occupied the German front and have captured many prisoners. The terrific bombardment which preceded the attack lasted about an hour and a half. It is too early as yet to give any but the barest particulars of the fighting which is developing in intensity. The British casualties have so far been comparatively light, according to official report.

The artillery bombardment of the last few days was concentrated this morning with an unprecedented fury in the region of Albert and the Somme, with the French co-operating to the south.

At 7:30 o'clock, through clouds of smoke and dust, which hung over the whole field as far as the eye could see, the infantry sprang from the trenches for an assault over a front of twenty miles. Already it has gained possession of the first line trenches and the advance is continuing. The new British trench mortars which fire 35 shots a minute, played a great part cutting wire entanglements and destroying trenches.

Large numbers of prisoners have been taken.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says that one thing she admires about her father is his non-attachment and he always votes the way he thinks right even when he hoped someone else would be nominated and hasn't any faith in the candi-

Some of the prisoners say the British curtains of fire prevented them getting food for the first five days. A British staff officer who witnessed the advance at the junction where the French and British lines met said the attack was launched as though the men were on parade.

Simultaneously with the launching of the British offensive, French infantry advanced to the attack. This movement of French troops was inaugurated over a section of the French line adjoining the junction point with the British front.

The British already have captured Serre and Montauban. The Germans hold Fricourt, Ovillers and Beaumont-Hamel. The French co-operating to the south, have captured Curlu and Faviere Woods. All the main first line trenches are reported to have been taken. At some points the operations have now reached the main second line. At Beaumont-Hamel the British are just making a fresh attack.

There is an intense struggle in progress for possession of Contalmaison, one end of which the British hold with the Germans in the other. The British have taken La Boisselle.

The British have a strong position northwest of Thiepval and are attacking fiercely in an effort to surround it. The important German position at Fricourt, may be cut off.

London, July 1.—"An attack was launched north of the river Somme this morning at 7:30 o'clock in conjunction with the French," says an official announcement given out here today. "British troops have broken into the German forward system of defenses on a front of sixteen miles."

The fighting is continuing. The French attack on our immediate right is proceeding equally satisfactorily.

"On the remainder of the British front raiding parties succeeded in penetrating the enemy's defenses at many points, inflicting loss on the enemy and taking some prisoners."

The news of the British offensive which was quickly circulated in London created the greatest enthusiasm and details of the battle are being anxiously awaited.

There was a frantic rush to obtain special editions of the evening newspapers. Along the Strand and other thoroughfares there was a turmoil of excitement.

FUNST ON MAKES NO COMMENT

San Antonio, Texas, July 1.—General Funston reserved comment today on the charges of bad faith made against him by Carranza's minister of foreign affairs and concentrated his attention on the silent marshalling of his growing army along the border line.

Reports from General Pershing in Mexico and from headquarters commanders along the border reflected the preparations being made by the Mexican war department for a clash with the American army. Troop trains were nearing the border from the north, east and west, but increased efforts were made to keep from the public the actual schedules of the trains.

From the tops of buses, passengers, especially soldiers, cheered the tidings which has been awaited so eagerly. Men and women in little groups scanned the special editions then broke out in cheers of joy.

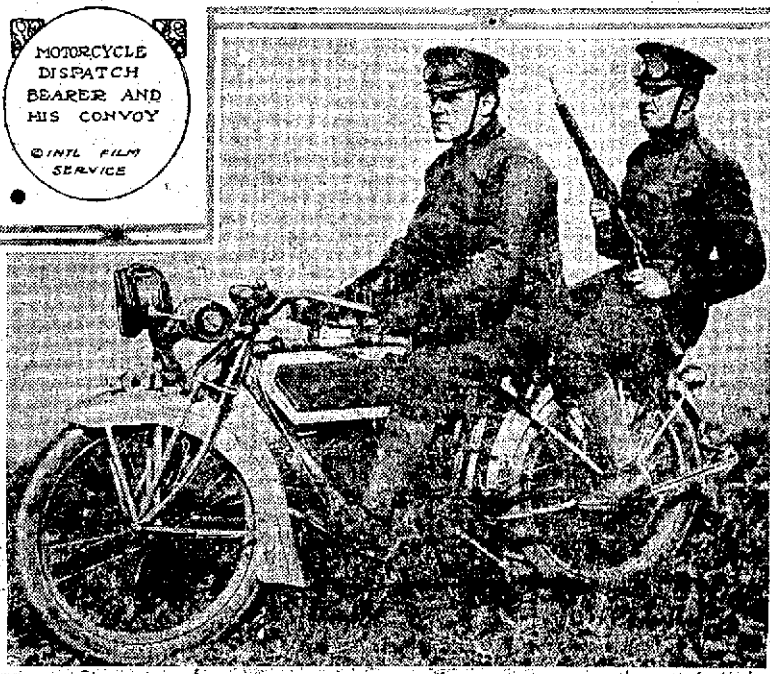

The tremendous drive which has been launched by the British army on the German front is the culmination of a five day bombardment with the amount of ammunition expended and the territory involved, exceeding anything of the kind that has been previously known in the world war.

For some weeks reports have been current in England and France that the "big push" of the British was about to commence. It was stated that England had 2,000,000 troops fully equipped and trained, in preparation for the supreme effort to break the German lines. More than 1,000,000 shells are declared to have been fired daily in the preliminary bombardment which extended over a front of 90 miles in length.

The British are now on the offensive in practically every field of the war. The British assault comes on the heels of the great successes won by the Russians in Galicia and Bukovina which have resulted in completely driving the Austrians from Bukovina and are still continuing. "On the Italian front the Central Powers have also met with severe reverses and for several days the Italians have been steadily driving the Austrians from position after position in the Trentino. The defense at Verdun seems to have stiffened and the balance in that bitterly contested sector appears (Continued On Page Eight)

GERMANS ADMIT ALLIES ACTIVE

Berlin, July 1.—(Via London)—The official statement issued by the war office today, says:

"Repeated French and British reconnoitering attacks during the night were everywhere repulsed. A number of prisoners and some material remained in our hands. The attacks were preceded by intense fire, gas attacks and mine explosions."

"Early this morning, fighting activity appreciably increased on both sides of the Somme."

"Northeast of Rheims and north of Le Mesnil minor operations of the enemy infantry failed."

German troops under General von Linsingen have won further successes against the Russians in Volhynia, southeast of Kovel. The capture of Russian positions west of Kolkli and southwest of Solul on the Styr is reported today by the war office. The fighting in the region southwest of Lutsk is also proceeding favorably for the Germans.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Crisis were at a standstill again today while the United States government awaited impatiently Carranza's reply to the note sent last Sunday demanding a statement of his intentions toward the American expedition in Mexico.

Messages received at the state department from Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City made no mention of the Mexican answer.

Mr. Rodgers so far has been unable to forecast the action of General Carranza and the only intimations reaching here have been through diplomatic and private dispatches. These have indicated that the defacto government was preparing to stand by its attitude of hostility toward United States troops across the border.

Upon his return from New York, President Wilson learned virtually nothing he did not know when he left yesterday.

Reports to the war department during the day continued to show satisfactory progress in military preparations for any eventualities on or beyond the border. Recruiting for the regular army increased more than 100 per cent during the week ending at noon yesterday. A total of 2,036 men were sworn in this week as against 1,105 last week. The average weekly end statement was in the neighborhood of 700. During the 100 days of recruiting under the authority granted by Congress to increase the regular army immediately after the Columbus raid a total of 13,351 men have been accepted out of 59,306 applicants for enlistment.

New York City led the recruiting last week with 1,024 accepted men as against 273 the preceding week.

No matter what a man's business, he'll rather have it rain any other day than Sunday. Therefore a weather man has gotta remember th' Sabbath day to keep it clear and balmy. Here's for tomorrow:

Ironton Boy Killed By Murdock Truck

Ironton, O., July 1.—The life of little William Edward Price, the ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Price, residing at Second and Quincy streets, was crushed out beneath the wheels of the heavy Murdock Grocery Company automobile truck, Friday evening. The accident occurred at the corner of Third and Monroe streets and Attorney Riley, who was riding up street behind the truck on his bicycle, was about the only eye witness to the tragedy. The truck was driven by Henry A. Duvendek and was heavily laden with groceries to be delivered to the stores in the South Side.

SPOTLIGHT THROWN ON FLAG

Its attractiveness enhanced by the glistening rays of a spotlight, a huge American flag can be seen waving over the plant of the Selby Shoe company these nights. The idea is an ingenious one and the flag attracts much attention. By using the spotlight the flag can be seen for a great distance. It is probable the idea will be made a permanent one, and Old Glory may be seen hereafter waving over Portsmouth day and night.

Beach In Fine Shape; Life Guards Chosen

The sand bar at the Peerless beach will be out Sunday, affording rare sport for the hundreds of bathers with whom the beach is so popular. During the past week the management of the beach has been busy accommodating those with whom the high water made no difference. Consequently Manager Roberts has made extra preparations for the crowds Sunday, as well as over the Fourth. Tom Van Voorheis, college chum of Roberts, was recently called to his home in Mt. Vernon because of the serious illness of his mother. Mr. Van Voorheis was in charge of the life-guards and was an expert in the water. James Lynn will act in Mr. Van Voorheis' place until after the Fourth. Mr. Lynn is one of the strongest swimmers in the city. He will be assisted by Guards David Williams, Robert Hodge, Lynn Padan, Louis Schoettle, Joseph Glass, Graves Williams and others, all of whom have been chosen by Manager Roberts because of their ability to assist those in danger. A surprise is awaiting those who have not visited the beach. The beautiful parking of the willow groves, the nobby tents, floats and equipment as a whole, with the natural environment, makes the Peerless beach the most beautiful and accommodating beach on the Ohio river. Everything for bathers and picnickers is to be found at Portsmouth's pleasure paradise—the Peerless.

Boy Scout Rally

The Boy Scout Rally to be held at the Grandview Christian church on Sunday evening, promises to be a great affair. # The World's Most Powerful Low Priced Car 31½ H.P.

ANNOUNCING THE NEW SERIES

$635 75 B $635

Overland

f.o.b. Toledo

This newest Overland is the world's most powerful low-priced car.

It has a 31½ horsepower en bloc motor that is a perfect marvel for speed, power and endurance.

By increasing the bore of the motor from 3½ to 3¾" we are able to offer a power plant which at 1950 R.P.M. develops full 31½ horsepower.

Tests under every condition in all parts of the country demonstrate that it easily develops better than fifty miles per hour on the road.

Speed of course varies under different conditions, but in practically every instance it has been getting fifty miles an hour and with ease.

We have scores of telegrams showing that eighteen to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

Take any other low-priced car on the market. Pit it against this new Overland. Compare them for sheer speed, for abundance of power, for riding comfort and economy, and you'll find this car will back anything else clean off the boards.

That's a strong statement, but a fact nevertheless.

Try it yourself and see.

Here are more important facts.

It has four-inch tires which are more than generous for a car of this size.

Not only has it a large and roomy body, but it has an attractive, up-to-date streamline body.

It has the latest and most improved system of ignition.

It has the cantilever springs—the easiest riding springs in the world.

What's more, it's complete. Not a thing to buy. You get the finest Auto-Lite electric starting and lighting system, magnetic speedometer, one-man top, demountable rims and practically every accessory found on the highest priced cars.

From a driving standpoint, the new car is ideal. It's light, easy to handle and anyone can drive it.

Take one look and be convinced.

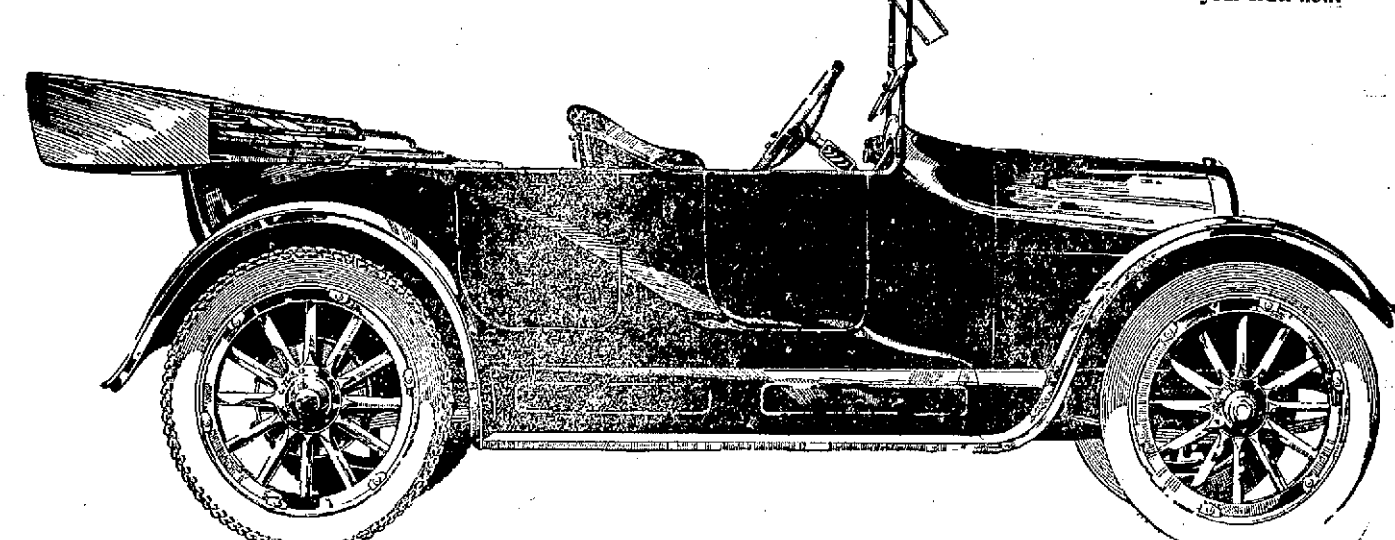

And mark these words—the car is destined to be regarded and referred to as one of the really great achievements of the great automobile industry.

Yet it only goes to prove how big production can cut cost and save you money.

First come, first served. Place your order now.

INDEPENDENCE WEEK. Firecracker month—yes! But there are no pyrotechnics at this store. Just plain, ordinary VALUE FOR MONEY and so much of it that we believe that they are unapproachable and unapproachable. Good furniture is to be had—plenty of it. Only a few suggestions can be given here owing to limitation of space. A visit to the store is absolutely NECESSARY. "TRUTH NEVER FEARS A RIGID EXAMINATION." Our best recommendation is the furniture itself. We invite inspection and comparisons.

SECTION HAND KILLED BY AN N. & W. EXTRA

Andy Howard, 35, N. & W. section hand of Lucasville, met at most instant death Saturday morning about 9:15 o'clock, when he was struck by N. & W. extra 1394, east bound. Howard was lying in the clear when the engine came speeding along and hit him. His skull was crushed, the brains being strewn along the track for a short distance.

The accident took place opposite the Tom Noel farm just north of Rosemont Road.

According to the other section men, the accident was the result of carelessness on the part of Howard who had plenty of time to get out of the way of the train.

He kept at work near the end of the tie and must have thought himself in the clear. The side of the pilot of the engine hit him, knocking him to one side from under the wheels of the engine. Fellow laborers rushed to him, and moved him to the side of the roadbed, where he died in a few seconds.

Undertakers Hartman and Son, of Lucasville, were called to take charge of the remains and prepare them for burial.

Coroner J. W. Daehler was called and he gave a verdict of accidental death. Howard is well known as a track laborer, and is widely known in Lucasville, where he has lived for about five years. He leaves a wife and two children.

Why Spend your Money, "with a Spade"?

THRIFT does not mean Penuriousness! Its first principle consists in getting FULL VALUE for each Dollar of income expended. Getting less is not complimentary to the intelligence of even a Millionaire. Being liberal and generous, in affairs where it is proper and deliberate to be so, differs widely from being thrifty, thoughtless and careless in buying things, on a business basis. A habit of "Jumping at Conclusions," instead of Thinking out these Conclusions, costs many a man a lifetime of Un-success.

TOO many Americans indolently act upon the shallow theory that an article "must be" WORTH more, merely because it Costs more. They are thus taxed a heavy price, all through life, for such an indolent habit of Thought.

They work hard, industriously and intelligently, to acquire money. Then (for their personal needs) they "Spend it with a Spade."

Is this complimentary to the judgment of even the Wealthiest? Do people become Wealthy who acquire the careless HABIT of "Spending Money," instead of intelligent, thoughtful BUYING with it?

MONEY cannot make BETTER Fabric Tires, at ANY price, than Goodrich 47-Year Experience, —300,000,000 lbs. Purchasing-Power, and Deliberate Intention, are now producing. No Rubber Concern in the world could afford to offer the low Fair-List Prices here quoted, on Fabric Tires (for such HIGH quality) without the enormous Goodrich VOLUME, which so reduces Cost as to make these lowest prices possible.

When, therefore, you pay MORE than these Goodrich Fair-List prices for ANY Fabric Tire, you are NOT getting "better" Tires.

Will Not Toss Present Engines Into Scrap Heap, Says Director

Director E. K. S. Clinkenbeard, of the public safety department, stated Saturday that there is no intention on the part of the city to abandon the use of the present horse-drawn fire engines, as some persons seem to think.

The director said the investigations made by the city officials showed that the use of tractors, or trucks, under steamers to motorize them was fast being abandoned, and instead the steamers are equipped with cushion tires, and with the tongue removed are attached to the pumps, or chemical wagons, with a draw bar when needed. The cost of this change is only $43, while to provide a tractor would cost from $3,500 to $4,000.

Portsmouth's two steamers will remain in use after the department is motorized, but will be only seen when a fire of sufficient magnitude will require their presence.

ARE DIVINE PURPOSES BEING CARRIED OUT

The local class of International Bible Students' Association has arranged for Pastor F. T. Marion, of Cincinnati, to speak at the Temple Theater Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. While Mr. Marion will be new to the Temple platform, he is by no means a novice, either in Bible study or Bible lecture work, having travelled very extensively in this work, and his services being very much in demand.

The subject Sunday afternoon will be "Is God or Satan Winning?" and it is a subject that will be of much interest to all. If the Divine purposes are being carried out, why do we find the race of mankind in so deplorable a condition, sin-cursed, subject to disease and death, and torn with strife, war and contention? If the Divine purposes are not being carried out, why not? They read them with profit.

Thousands of people go through TIMES WANT ADS every night. They read them with profit.

ENTHUSIASTIC PLANS LAID TO REJUVENATE FAMOUS WEST END

Business Men's Banquet An Unqualified Success; Sam Wise Is First President Big Improvements Planned

OFFICERS OF NEW ASSOCIATION

Sam Wise .....	President
Adam Frick .....	Vice President
Charles W. Sommer .....	Secretary
John W. Snyder .....	Treasurer

History repeated itself when "Original Portsmouth" as speaker after speaker aptly termed it, asserted itself at the initial banquet and meeting of the new West End Business Men's Association Friday night. Members present emulated the example set by the pioneers of that quarter, who laid the foundation for the Peerless City of today, and assuming the initiative in carrying on its great development and along with it that of the county.

Never were so many progressive movements crowded into a single evening's session as marked the first meeting of the newly formed organization, never such a unanimity of opinion and desire to further its purposes and the earnestness and enthusiasm displayed augurs well for the future Greater Portsmouth.

Nothing was lacking to make the banquet and meeting what they were intended to be—an unqualified success.

The Association amid a wave of enthusiasm adopted as its slogan "Paint the West End White" as the first step towards what will be a systematic campaign to make that section of the city more attractive.

The association by a rising vote of 19 to 15 went on record as favoring and recommending the corner of Second and Chillicothe streets as a site for a new court house.

Arrangements were made for the president to appoint committees and report on these different questions at the next meeting:

WANT TOWPATH ELECTRICALLY LIGHTED

That of painting the West End white; electrically lighting the Towpath as petitioned for by West Side citizens; street railway company providing car service from the city to the West Side; inducing the city to purchase the several houses adjacent to the new Scioto river bridge and beautifying its Portsmouth approach with a small park; raising the Towpath from its present level to 52 or 55 ft.; encouraging the immediate paving of all West End alleys and repairing and permanently keeping clean the river grade.

While no formal action was taken much encouragement was handed out for all present to act upon the Board of Trade's suggestion to attend the Pomona field day exercises at Wheelersburg to show farmers that Portsmouth is not only theoretically but practically interested in them, to continue the campaign for more good roads, educate the West Side farmer to the wonderful possibilities of his present waste and uncultivated land and last but not least lend a helping hand to one of the city's greatest but not sufficiently appreciated assets, its natural waterway, the Ohio river through the complete canalization of which, as one speaker pointed out, the West End will once again witness the spectacle of scenic business going back to her river front.

The launching of Portsmouth's newest civic organization took place at the Ohio on Fourth street and was preceded with a banquet which began shortly after six o'clock. Rev. E. A. Powell, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, said the invocation.

Delightful simplicity and informality were marked features of the banquet and went a long way towards making the evening the pleasure given it was for all who had the good fortune to attend.

No little credit for the splendid success of the affair was due the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of All Saints' church, who served with a grace, charm and courtesy that more than warranted all of the warm words of praise and thanks tendered them.

MR. CRAWFORD MADE IDEAL TOASTMASTER

It was closely approaching 8 o'clock when Attorney Mark A. Crawford, chairman of the organization and arrangements committee, and one of the prime movers in the founding of the association, assumed the role of toastmaster.

He started the first of oratory that followed. Mr. Crawford threw himself into the spirit of the occasion with all of the character and vigor at his command. In eloquent words he in turn introduced the chosen speakers of the program.

The tables were tastefully adorned with prettily shaded lamps and yucca, cactopsis and hydrangea, and were the artistic decorative work of Miss Josephine Kinney. The menu consisted of the following:

Red Raspberries with Cream	Fish	Pickles
Olives	Veal Leaf	Tongue
String Beans	Creamed Potatoes
Brown Bread	White Bread
Brick Cream	Cake
Coffee	Cigars

committee voiced appreciation of the splendid outpouring of members which he said manifested a desire of West End business men to put into effect what they have undertaken. He explained the nature and purposes of the association which briefly are that of improving property and business conditions of the West End, encouraging civic betterment, enlarging its scope and developing the West Side. He said the association wished to work hand in hand with the Board of Trade, with all business and labor organizations in the development of the city and county, by the building of a new court house and city hall, extension and enlargement of the highways toward the West Side, development of the farming country, establishment of granges, building of traction lines from Portsmouth to Chillicothe and Columbus.

SENATOR TREMPER IS FIRST SPEAKER

Senator W. D. Tremper was introduced as the first speaker of the evening. "The New Court House" was the subject assigned to him and he handled it in his usual happy and clever manner. After indulging in a little pleasantry and expressing the belief that in himself, Comrade P. J. Kline, Mr. S. R. Ross, Rabbi A. Schapiro and Rector E. A. Powell the spiritual welfare of the West End, was pretty well tended to, he dwelt upon the elements that enter into the development of a city. He said it was the men who handle public affairs who promote ed in a stagnant condition. There was a small element left who still had faith in the ultimate outcome and one of these men was Mr. A. M. Damarin. The railroads came but the much talked of Pound Gap road which was to develop the great mineral resources of Eastern Kentucky never came. Those same resources are there yet. Continuing Senator Tremper said: "I have had a dream for a number of years that with those unlimited coal deposits adjacent to us that stretch 40 or 50 miles of country from Guyandotte to the Scioto river will become the workshop of America and this opinion is shared by others. The question is which place is going to be the

SPOKE ON BEAUTIFICATION OF CITY

Councilman Charles W. Wilson next spoke on the "Beautification of A City," and was frequently interrupted by applause. He said in part:

"In speaking upon this subject the first question entering my mind, should a man do as he pleases with his own property? The community itself gives value to property. The very fact of the community's existence is what multiplies the demands for land. That is why land is expensive in cities and cheap in the country. That is why land in big groving cities is more valuable than land in small sluggish cities."

"If then, it be true that it is not the owner himself who gives value to this land, how far should this important fact modify the owner's freedom of use? In view of the fact that all property, in the midst of a community, assumes a value in harmony with the nature of that community, isn't the community itself entitled to some consideration? If a corner lot in a given locality is valuable because of the very nature of that locality, should the whole locality itself be sacrificed to gratify the wish, whim or selfish profit of some individual owner? Very true, a metropolis. I can not help but think that the men of affairs in Portsmouth will make this city the metropolis. The success or growth of a section of the city benefits all other sections. The town had to start down here because of its geographical location between the two rivers and it is but natural that its growth is eastward. Chillicothe street is a part of the West End. We cannot afford to neglect any part of the city. In the location of public buildings we should consider Second and Chillicothe streets as the logical site for a new court house. (Applause) Common sense suggests it and ordinary business sense demands it."

man has rights. He ought to have rights. But isn't a community also entitled to some rights? As a matter of fact should not the rights of a community be superior to the rights of a single mind of that community? There are certain commercial uses to which property is daily being put; all of the uses are important. In many cases they are a necessity. But that does not alter the fact that the nature of these uses may be such as to make them ruinous to residential values if placed in such neighborhoods. Should this be permitted without let or hindrance? Is every valuable spot in the city to be subjected to the continuous possibility of commercial assassination? Is every man's home to run the daily hazard of being robbed of its value by the unrestrained actions of some inconsiderate lot holder? Are residential values to be made the hopeless and unprotected victims of commercial greed? As a matter of fact every man who invests his money in urban property invests his money in the effects of a community influence; and not solely in the naked land itself. The land would be valueless without the community effects."

"A BIGGER AND BETTER PORTSMOUTH"

Mayor H. H. Kays responded to the toast of "A Bigger and Better Portsmouth." He told of some of his earliest recollections of "Bonahiddle" as the West End is familiarly known to many to this day and where he said he was born. "Portsmouth," continued he, "to my mind is bounded by four different things, the future traction line on the West Side, the steel plant and N. & W. shops on the east, the future N. & W. passenger depot on the north and on the south we see the flood wall coming. We expect to see the new depot in another year. During the first six months of our administration, just ended, we started out to put the water works in shape. We have had a whole lot of trouble getting it in shape but we are progressing. The flood wall is under way. On the eighth of July we expect to open bids for motorizing the fire department. One of the things determined upon for the future improvement of the city is the paving of alleys. We have decided upon a plan of paving these as we do the streets and we are now ready to pave any alley who petitioned for by the property owners. While I personally favor (Continued On Page Eleven)

DR. KLINE MADE HAPPY LITTLE TALK

As a departure from the serious subjects and deep thought as the toastmaster put it, Dr. P. J. Kline was called upon for some of his never failing fun and frolic. The doctor did not quite understand what sort of a "dose" he expressed it, he was "to hand out to the boys" but when assured that it was nothing specific proceeded in his usually interesting way to compare Modern Portsmouth with Ancient Portsmouth. "The citizens of Bonafide of the old days I know," said he, "would take anything that was given to them. You do not realize how much the entire town is indebted to them. When a boy is born he has to be brought up to make a man of him. All progressive movements in the city had their initiative in this part of town. When you walked around in those old days someone would meet you on every corner with a subscription paper to bring the at Sixth and Court streets and get away from the noise of street cars and have a new school building on the Second street lot."

C. P. & V., the Scioto Valley and so forth. Bonafide always laid down the money. She didn't have any but somehow always managed to get it somewhere. We are past the stage of childhood. When I think of the condition of this part of town as it was when I came here 42 years ago and how it is today I certainly am extremely glad over the improvements we have secured. In those days when I drove around with my old nag and buggy letting on like I was busy it was no uncommon thing to find cows sleeping in the streets and pig pens everywhere. You know a cow gets up very different from a horse. A horse gets up head first while a cow gets up tail first and is always sure to arise just about the time your front wheels are across her spine and you're upset. But those things have all stopped. We have paved streets just as good as any in the world and the facilities for building them."

SUBJECT WAS "THE RETAIL MERCHANTS"

A Schapiro was called upon for a talk on "The Retail Merchants." He recalled the conditions as he found them upon his arrival in Portsmouth twenty-nine years ago. He said that for years he had thought the West End had allowed good opportunities to pass by. It had been neglected by property owners and the merchants themselves. He said there was no excuse for it going backward. The Ohio river was a great factor in making the West End. He said he was glad to see coming true a fond dream of his that some day the West End would show that it was coming back into its own and pushing ahead again. As proof that the West End is far from dying even though some persons might have been singing its funeral song he cited statistics to give some idea of its property values. The total property value as fixed for taxation is $6,844,120, consisting of $244,140 personal property, $4,444,220 realty, $1,575,760 corporations. He said there were 2,223 property owners who own 2,600 pieces of property. The merchandise stock totaled $345,494, pawnbroker stock only $400 and money on deposit $91,354, credits above debts $130,805.

MADE VIGOROUS APPEAL FOR ROAD BETTERMENT

Postmaster Vallee Harold aroused much interest and enthusiasm with one of his usual stirring appeals for road betterment and the development of the thousands of acres of uncultivated lands of the West Side, under the subject of "Time, Efforts and Means."

He said it was in the West End or near Second and Court streets that he first entered the business life of Portsmouth and found during his sojourn there some lasting effects. He said whenever home-

Cultivated	Arable Orchard Timber	Waste
Morgan Township ... 2942	867	2508
Nile Township ..... 4247	55	6520
Rarden Township .... 2119	2547	5148
Rush Township ..... 1587	1445	2264
Union Township ..... 3573	3890	1465
Washington Township 3857	237	325
Total .....	18324	9041
	690	18530

Out of this total of 53231 acres of West Side township lands only half of the productive lands, he said, were under cultivation. These lands do not produce one-half or one-third that they should produce. "We should show to the West Side farmer how these lands could be improved and made use of. I do not wish to detract anything from traction lines but good roads are the first essentials. I would give more for a brick road to Rarden and one to Buena Vista than a half dozen traction lines."

Good roads are not only needed but are the prime factor in the development of the future. The automobile is going to become a great factor in future development but you cannot operate automobiles successfully unless you have good roads. In every undertaking of substance and moment time is a great factor. You cannot simply wave an Aladdin's lamp and produce results. Do not get weary or discouraged if after six months or even six years you haven't accomplished much."

HOW SERIOUS OBSTACLES WERE OVERCOME

The speaker then told of the obstacles that surrounded the initial efforts to secure good roads in Scioto county, how with only a dozen promoters at a meeting in Kendall's hall seven years ago the then county commissioners felt grossly insulted at what they termed was trespassing upon their authority and left the hall in indignation, how four years of inactivity passed but finally the seemingly impossible came when the people voted $500,000 for good roads and today the county has from ten to twelve miles of splendid improved roads. His prediction that the next seven years would find Scioto county having the best roads in the state evoked great applause. "Let each fellow create enthusiasm, talk better farming, better roads, cultivation of orchards and concentrate the efforts of the 100 or more of these men and some substantial benefits will be sure to come," advised

he. "Comparatively you have a few good homes down here. Let each man get busy, tear down some of the rookeries and build decent respectable homes. Otto Zoellner by applying his business experience and study has done more towards good farming than a half dozen others. What he has done by his individual efforts a 100 best men can do 100 times by concentrating efforts and not losing faith and courage. He suggested the raising of a little money to advertise the cheap lands of the West Side in farm journals for their natural advantages for sheep and cattle ranches. He told of how cheap lands in Bond county, Illinois, which years ago sold for $10 and $15 per acre today brought $40 and $75 simply because of the advent of Central Illinois who converted them to use for stock raising purposes. The same thing can be done on the West Side. "Gentlemen, go to it."

MAKES FERVENT PLEA FOR WEST SIDE GRANGES

Trustmaster Crawford made a fervent plea for the establishment of granges on the West Side and distribution of farm literature as essentials in developing that section. He spoke of the good tobacco producing lands of that section and said only closer association with the farmer was needed to make him look to the city man for guidance and then no doubt the latter could get his business. Alan N. Jordan reported that 32 persons of the West Side had signed a petition asking for electric lights on the new bridge and along the Towpath. He said there were a hundred or more West Side girls working in stores and factories who felt unsafe on the road after work. He believed if the association got behind the movement the service would be installed. He also suggested it worth while for the city to purchase the three houses on the east side of the Portsmouth approach to the bridge, the beauty of which was lost to view on Second street. He also referred to hog pens in the immediate vicinity of the bridge making its surroundings unsightly and recommended that the site of the houses be converted into a park. He recommended brightening up the West End by painting properties white, said he was going to paint his newly purchased Sixth street properties that color and had offered to pay part of the cost of repainting All Saints and the First Presbyterian churches if painted white. His promise to give gratis all material needed for raising the Towpath to 50 or 55 feet was greeted with applause. He also urged the merchants to attend the Pomona field day exercises, believing it would pay them to go.

The hit of the evening came with the advent into the festivities of Portsmouth's oldest living citizen, Mr. S. R. Ross, aged 97 years, who was present as a guest of honor. He was facetiously introduced as the "Youngest man in the West End."

Beaming with smiles Mr. Ross sprang to the floor and with remarkable vigor and in happy fashion began describing the earlier days of Portsmouth as he found them 72 years ago. He was then 25 years of age and had come to this city to succeed some cousins in the wholesale business that they might go on to New Orleans. He said Front and Back streets, as Second street was called in those days, formed the principal part of the town with Market street as practically its eastern boundary. He said that after being shown over the town, he was visiting all points of interest, he expressed his satisfaction with it. The court house was pointed out to him as the highest specimen of architecture.

"The memory of this occasion," continued Mr. Ross, "will remain with me for a long time, it is as fragrant as the flowers on the table. I have a very kind feeling for the West End of Portsmouth and predict that within ten years from now the West End will have come into its own and the East End will be coming down into our vacant store rooms for with the improvements spoken of by Mr. Jordan there will be a volume of trade coming into the city we will not dream of."

Mr. Ross was given an ovation at the conclusion of his remarks and upon motion of Carl N. Hansen was unanimously elected as the association's first honorary member. He accepted with great pleasure and declared his intention of attending the next meeting.

Frank V. Knauss, president of the Board of Trade, reviewed the topics of the evening, referring to all of the propositions as good, urged co-operation with the farmer and the establishment in the center of the city a room where the farmer can meet his friends. He said the thing to do was to show the farmer that you want to get nearer to him. He said he himself was a West End for it was there he located when he moved to Portsmouth in 1874. He said while his business interests were in the East End he had favored holding things in the West End, had subscribed stock for the Washington hotel and while in council helped purchase the present city building with a view to building a court house there. He advocated the building up of vacant lots and the improvement of alleys. He said Portsmouth with respect to alleys was the worst town in the country. The new N. & W. depot would tend to improve property conditions in the North End. He felt the city owed a debt of gratitude to President L. E. Johnson, of the N. & W. railway, for the personal interest he is taking in giving the city a depot of which it will be proud and commended the city officials for co-operating with the company. He said the best way to help develop the city and county was join the Board of Trade. The time has come when the farmer should join the board and attend our meetings, attend our picture shows and become a part of our business and social life.

Victor Howland, who was present as a representative of Central Labor Council, when called upon, expressed the belief that there were two essential elements to success, ambition to do something and the necessary energy to carry out the ambition. He said when manufacturers, retail merchants, laboring men and all other classes organized for their mutual benefit

IS AT HOME IN OLD FIRST WARD

Frank M. Baggs was introduced as the representative of the Employers' Association. He said he did not feel he was among strangers for it was in the First Ward he located when he came to Portsmouth twenty years ago. He said Mr. Ross' reference to Front and Back streets gave him the thought that Portsmouth's real asset was its natural waterway. He urged the support of the Ohio

SAYS IT IS LOGICAL SITE FOR COURT HOUSE

Dr. E. C. Jackson suggested the Second street school lot as a logical site for a new court house, said the building had been condemned by the state, that the board of education cannot sell it outright and now was the time to acquire it while it is available, while the chances will be the other way a year hence. He said that in the absence of other quarters the school would have to be used for another year. This soon precipitated revival of the subject and a lively discussion. Sen. Tremper, while saying he believed the mayor was perfectly honest and in good faith in saying the noise of street cars was an objectionable feature, aroused great enthusiasm when he said, "Can you imagine a more lovely, more beautiful view than what you would have across

EX-MAYOR ADAM FRICK INTRODUCED

Former Mayor Adam Frick was next introduced. He expressed his pleasure of having been invited, told of his coming to Portsmouth twenty-five years ago and said he and Mrs. Frick were intensely pleased that they had made this city their home. He said he was not speaking politically in saying that he was glad the present administration was carrying out the program the preceding administration had mapped out two years ago, was glad to see action on the flood wall which did not particularly benefit the West End but showed that they were just as much interested in the East End.

fr he believed all should co-operate for the general benefit of the city. It is but logical, he said, that if it is good for all to organize that by co-operation a great deal more good will result for the general community.

Valley Improvement Association in its efforts to bring about a complete canalization of the river. This was hoped for by 1925 but the burden rested on the lower river and support is more urgent now than ever. The upper river is already navigable the year around from Pittsburgh to Wheeling. "Once a nine foot stage is assured a great deal of your business will go back to the river front."

Frank B. Kehoe raised the point that to abandon the school property would leave the West End with but one school, to which Dr. Jackson replied that with the money that would be realized on its sale the board could buy sufficient property adjacent to the Fourth street school to extend it over to Fifth street. Mr. Kehoe was still opposed to switching the location, saying he did not believe the county could afford to abandon its present court house site for another, and called for a division vote, which resulted in 19 votes for the Second street location and 15 against.

The speaking ended the assembly proceeded towards perfecting an organization. Mr. Crawford was named temporary chairman and F. B. Kehoe secretary. Dr. E. C. Jackson, Dr. W. D. Tremper and Leo Sommer were named a committee on nomination of permanent officers; L. C. Peel, Adam Frick and Arnold Schapiro committee on regulations and by-laws; A. M. Damarin, Samuel Wise and Alan Jordan committee to secure permanent quarters.

Mr. Jordan now offered resolutions adopting "Paint the West End White" as the official slogan and after a brief interruption caused by John P. Manuigan objecting and wanting to substitute green as the color, which created considerable merriment, the resolutions passed unanimously.

Attorney Arnold Schapiro succeeded in getting the floor for a moment and by way of answering the objection raised to the Second street school lot as a court house site because of the street car noises, mentioned how on last Tuesday Judge Thomas published an appeal for vehicle owners to try and avoid the vicinity of the court house while the Jordan murder trial was on as it was almost impossible to hear anything that was being said inside.

The committee nominated Sam Frick for president, Adam Frick vice president, Charles Sommer for secretary and John W. Snyder for treasurer. They were unanimously elected.

After receiving assurances of welcome from Messrs. Knauss and Daehler of the Board of Trade and Retail Merchants respectively, it was decided to use the rooms of those organizations in the Masonic Temple as permanent quarters and that the next meeting be held at the call of the president.

The committees appointed were directed to present resolutions at the next meeting on painting West End property white, lighting the Towpath, asking street car service to the West Side, purchasing houses at the bridge approach, raising the Towpath and paving of alleys.

Mr. Crawford in severing his connection as the head of the organization did so in beautiful sentiment and was roundly applauded as he concluded. He turned the chair over to President Wise, who expressed his appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him and his recital of "Keep Up Your Stock of Sand" fairly brought down the house. Resolutions were also passed thanking the committee in charge of the banquet and meeting which was composed of Messrs. Mark A. Crawford, A. M. Damarin, Charles Barlow, L. C. Peel and Frank D. White.

Councilman Wilson in order to learn for the information of council the extent of sentiment favoring the purchase of the several houses at the Scioto bridge approach called for a rising vote and every member present arose. "Seems that it is unanimous," said he laughingly.

JORDAN TRIAL

"Where was your mamma then?"

"Lying on the bed."

"Where were you?"

"In that room."

"Did you see your father coming back from the barn with the milk?"

"Yes sir."

"As he came to the house, did you go to the door?"

"I forgot."

"Did you say your ma's dead?"

"No sir."

"Did you talk to Hartman, the undertaker at Lucasville?"

"Yes sir."

"Did he ask you several questions and you told him that your mother had fallen against the bed post?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you tell him some other stories before he left that afternoon?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you put the gun under the bed?"

"No sir."

"Did you tell Mr. Hartman that you put the gun under the bed?"

"I forgot."

Attorney Funk closely questioned the boy about the stories he told Mr. Hartman on the day of tragedy and the boy confirmed each story he told the undertaker.

"Aren't you mistaken about seeing the boys with the poles? If there is a hill back up there?"

"Yes sir."

Questions relative to the boy's arrest were asked and he answered each one of them, corroborating the testimony of former witnesses.

"Did you see Dr. Seitz?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"Yes sir."

"Did you tell Dr. Seitz in the presence of Fred and Roy and Jim that you shot your mother?"

"Yes sir."

"And that you didn't know the gun was loaded?"

"Yes sir."

The boy affirmed the story he told before Judge Beatty went to his shooting his mother accidentally.

"Did anyone accuse you?"

"Yes sir."

"Who was it?"

"Little Freddie."

Cross Examination Is Made

"George did you testify at Dr. Dechler's office?" asked Attorney O'Neal.

"Yes sir."

"The boy did not understand the question and after it was asked in a different manner stated that he did."

"Did you state there that you put the gun under the bed after your mother's death?"

"Yes sir."

"That was just three days after your mother's death?"

"Yes sir."

"Was your mother lying in bed?"

"She was."

"Where was her head in the bed?"

"Toward the other room."

"Where was your mother lying before she was shot?"

"At the head of the bed."

"Was she lying on her back or on her side?"

"I don't remember."

"Now, George?" said Attorney Miller for the state, "you first said your mother was lying at the foot of the bed and then you said she was lying at the head of the bed. Now which is correct?"

"Head of the bed."

"When your father came back with the milk did he go into the room where your mother was?"

"I don't remember."

"You told here that your father killed your mother and you also told Judge Beatty that you killed her. Now which is right?"

The boy hesitated and did not answer.

"Did you ever shoot a gun?"

"No sir."

Attorney Miller took the shot gun and handed it to George. The lad held it in both hands in his lap.

"Take it and try it. Can you break it? Can you pull the trigger back?"

"No sir."

"Have you tried it?"

"Yes sir. I tried it before the grand jury and did it once."

The witness had reference to pulling the trigger back. But he could not break the gun.

Judge Thomas C. Beatty was recalled to the stand to testify on behalf of the defense relative to the confession made by George in his presence. His testimony was practically the same as was given Sunday during the morning session. Dr. William Seitz was also called to the stand to testify.

Judge Thomas asked that George Jordan be placed on the stand again and asked him:

"Now, George, you told Judge Beatty about killing your mother, now tell the jury why you told Judge Beatty that?"

"Because I wanted to help my father."

"Anyone been talking to you since you left the witness stand?" asked Attorney Funk.

"No sir."

"Haven't you talked to Mr. Miller there?"

"Yes sir."

"When?"

"Just a minute ago."

Attorney Miller objected saying that he did not care to have counsel for the defense insinuating such things and asked George if he did not casually address him when several of the jurors were present. The lad said yes.

Judge Thomas then stated that the question he asked was not the result of anything that came through the attorneys for the state but on the court's own motion.

Defense Again Rebutted

Attorney Theo. K. Funk announced that the defense rested and William Skaggs was the first witness called by the state in rebuttal.

"I will ask you if in a conversation with Roy Jordan, Jr., since the second day of May in which he said: 'I don't care for my pa going to the penitentiary but I don't want to see him killed.'"

"Yes sir, he said that."

The defense objected and were sustained. The court held that the question was not material for impeachment and Roy Jordan, Jr. was returned to the witness stand.

"Did you make a statement to Ona Fields at his house or barn about two weeks ago something like this: 'If I had Jim out here I would stick my 'number nines' through him as he told all he know'd'."

"No sir."

Ona Fields was called and asked if any such conversation between himself and Roy Jordan had taken place and he replied in the affirmative.

Miss Fayette Bricker, school teacher, Lucasville, was the next witness called by the state. She was asked if she was in a position to know anything about the reputation of Roy Jordan, Jr., as to veracity. She said she did and that it was not very good.

Albert Morris, J. L. Ward, Frank Morris, Frank Ward, Blaine Lyman Morris and Thomas Morris, testified on behalf of the state that they were neighbors of Roy Jordan and that his reputation for truth and veracity was "bad."

On cross examination most of them admitted that at some time they had trouble with the defendant.

Just after Thomas Morris completed his testimony for the state and on cross examination, Attorney Theo. K. Funk said:

"Your reputation is very bad, isn't it?"

"Yes sir."

This created considerable amusement among the spectators. Prosecuting Attorney Joseph T. Nicklelwait announced that the state would rest and the defense called the following in rebuttal: all of whom were character witnesses and testified that Jordan bore a good reputation for truth and veracity: Jerry Walker, Frank Bates, Paris Walker, Jas. Chandler, Joseph H. Brant, J. R. Hillings, Dr. William Seitz, John Howell, Lafayette Diamond, A. Wilkes and Rev. James Walker.

The defense announced that they would rest. And the testimony in the Jordan case was completed.

In the opening argument for the state Attorney E. G. Miller said that the Jordan case was very important for both the defendant and the state as justice should be given to the accused and that a man committing murder was dangerous to society. "Crimes are not committed in the open. A man doesn't shoot his wife when company is at his home," declared Mr. Miller.

He claimed that circumstantial evidence was the best evidence in the world and cited as example that an eye witness could take the stand and testify falsely but circumstances were beyond the control of outside influence. He declared that there was no reason why James should testify against his father and that it was perfectly natural for a boy to attempt to shield his father.

He contended that it was not human for a father to call his boys and tell them that their mother was dead and then allow them to walk into the room to find the "frightful mess." He said that it was not natural for a boy as old as Roy to enter the room to see his mother in such a shape and not inquire what killed her.

"There is only one conclusion," the testimony of Jim that during the morning session. Dr. William Seitz was also called to the stand to testify.

Judge Thomas asked that George Jordan be placed on the stand again and asked him:

"Now, George, you told Judge Beatty about killing your mother, now tell the jury why you told Judge Beatty that?"

"Because I wanted to help my father."

He contended that it was not human for a father to call his boys and tell them that their mother was dead and then allow them to walk into the room to find the "frightful mess." He said that it was not natural for a boy as old as Roy to enter the room to see his mother in such a shape and not inquire what killed her.

"There is only one conclusion," the testimony of Jim that during the morning session. Dr. William Seitz was also called to the stand to testify.

Judge Thomas asked that George Jordan be placed on the stand again and asked him:

"Now, George, you told Judge Beatty about killing your mother, now tell the jury why you told Judge Beatty that?"

"Because I wanted to help my father."

"Anyone been talking to you since you left the witness stand?" asked Attorney Funk.

"No sir."

"Haven't you talked to Mr. Miller there?"

"Yes sir."

"When?"

"Just a minute ago."

Attorney Miller objected saying that he did not care to have counsel for the defense insinuating such things and asked George if he did not casually address him when several of the jurors were present. The lad said yes.

Judge Thomas then stated that the question he asked was not the result of anything that came through the attorneys for the state but on the court's own motion.

Defense Again Rebutted

Attorney Theo. K. Funk announced that the defense rested and William Skaggs was the first witness called by the state in rebuttal.

"I will ask you if in a conversation with Roy Jordan, Jr., since the second day of May in which he said: 'I don't care for my pa going to the penitentiary but I don't want to see him killed.'"

"Yes sir, he said that."

The defense objected and were sustained. The court held that the question was not material for impeachment and Roy Jordan, Jr. was returned to the witness stand.

"Did you make a statement to Ona Fields at his house or barn about two weeks ago something like this: 'If I had Jim out here I would stick my 'number nines' through him as he told all he know'd'."

"No sir."

Ona Fields was called and asked if any such conversation between himself and Roy Jordan had taken place and he replied in the affirmative.

Miss Fayette Bricker, school teacher, Lucasville, was the next witness called by the state. She was asked if she was in a position to know anything about the reputation of Roy Jordan, Jr., as to veracity. She said she did and that it was not very good.

Albert Morris, J. L. Ward, Frank Morris, Frank Ward, Blaine Lyman Morris and Thomas Morris, testified on behalf of the state that they were neighbors of Roy Jordan and that his reputation for truth and veracity was "bad."

On cross examination most of them admitted that at some time they had trouble with the defendant.

Just after Thomas Morris completed his testimony for the state and on cross examination, Attorney Theo. K. Funk said:

"Your reputation is very bad, isn't it?"

"Yes sir."

A Simple Shingle House—By John Henry Newson

"Home of Character" No. 157

This little house, of the Dutch colonial type, while inexpensive, is one that possesses a simple charm. The side walls and roof are in shingles and can be stained such colors as would be desired by the purchaser, but the most harmonious scheme would be to have the shingles brown, as also all of the exterior woodwork, with the roof shingles a very much darker brown and the sash painted white or cream.

The floor plan has a center hall with the dining room and living room on each side and the stairs extending up from the hall to the second floor. The kitchen has an ice room and a pantry and a rear porch with stairs to grade landing and cellar. The second floor has three bedrooms, all of ample size, and a small hall. The attic is reached by a stairway from the second floor and the bathroom is over the kitchen.

This design 32x26 feet would be very attractive with the entire interior enameled white, with brick doors, stained in mahogany. The first floor would be equally attractive in hardwood, stained and waxed.

Could be built in most localities for from $3000 to $3500.

If you are thinking of building let The Times Homes of Character Department help you through advice from John Henry Newson. Address your inquiries to him "Homes of Character" Dept., The Times. Give the numbers of houses concerning which you make inquiry.

The Tallow Dip Goes Out!

A Boston firm, which operated the largest tallow dip factory in the country, which, of a fact, was about the sole survivor in this once general and flourishing industry, announced, last week, that it would discontinue the making of the candles. Thus another institution of the past makes surrender to progress. A generation ago not only every well regulated, but most every family of every kind, kept a stock of tallow candles on hands, according to their prudence and means. Now most families, especially those in town, have little knowledge of this mode of lighting and less use for it. That is rather strange for the tallow dip still remains with us as the measure of light. For we still speak and will so continue for many years, of a given brilliancy as so many candle power, 16-candle lamp, 40-candle, 60-candle, 80-candle, 1200-candle and 2000-candle are terms of hourly use, in speaking of electric illumination. And could things thus so intimately connected be so far apart. The tallow dip was a necessity, but it was a nuisance. Danger and discomfort were its accompaniments and qualities. Recalls the hunting for a match, a place to strike it, the melted tallow running down onto fingers and scorching them, the upsetting of the pesky thing when it was set down without its "stick," which by-the-way wasn't a stick at all, but a hollow tube with a base in which the candle was stuck, that is when the family had enough "sticks," but a family was never known to have enough for every candle in use. Well, may be there was one family that had enough, but memory recalls no instance where an extra candle and a stick could be found in speaking distance of each other. Still, we wouldn't speak altogether disparagingly of the tallow dip; it had its uses and it was mighty handy at times. It is not at all the same with the electric candle. It is absolutely the most wonderful of all inventions because it is a prime necessity and at the same time the best of all comforts and the finest of luxuries. You often here people say they would like to have a taste of luxury—they can get it almost for nothing in the electric current. There isn't a particle of noise, dirt, disorder, confusion or annoyance about it, scarce so much an effort required to reach its enjoyment. Merely pressing a button brings a veritable flood of light, the cooling breezes to blowing, or the water steaming on the stove—things of more life and daily importance to you than that its moves the ears along the streets and across country, whirled the big wheels in industries, and talks clear around the earth and chatters through invisible space. It is the pleasant thing, the comfortable thing, the important thing, the useful thing, the necessitous thing, the one luxurious thing you can demand in your home and know you are doing the most economical thing. Whether you own your home or rent it, you ought to see it has electric service.

We will be glad to talk to you anytime about how little it costs and what are its manifold advantages.

Eastern Division Of Dixie Highway Will Be Opened In Fall

That the eastern division of the Dixie Highway, from Cincinnati to Chattanooga which traverses the Blue Grass region of Kentucky and the picturesque Cumberland Gap and into Kentucky, will be open to tourists late in the fall, is the expectation of the Dixie officials. With the completion of this section of road, way tourists will be able to travel from any point in the northeast straight through to Florida over good roads.

Judge M. M. Allison, president of the Dixie Highway Association, plans to take a trip this month in the interests of the highway to Knoxville, through the Cumberland Gap and into Kentucky. This trip will be made in the new official car of the Dixie Highway Association, an Overland "Six", contributed for the use of that organization by John N. Willys-Overland Company, one of the foremost boosters for good roads.

Overland Employees Will See Circus

What is claimed to be the largest circus party on record will take place in Toledo this summer when the Willys-Overland company will act as hosts to its 18,000 employees for six performances of the big Barnum and Bailey show. This big tented amusement will be brought to Toledo on July 27, 28 and 29 for six performances, one each afternoon and evening.

Each of the Overland employees will be given three tickets and six carfare for himself and family. It is estimated that 60,000 or more will see this show—not only the main attractions, but the side show attractions as well, as everything will be free to the employees and their families.

Beats Dixie Flyer With Chalmers Six-30

Drawing down the third American road record to be captured by a Chalmers Six-30 in the past three weeks, Homer C. George, newspaperman and amateur driver of Atlanta, Ga., has just lowered all road and rail records between Atlanta and Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. George drove a five-passenger Chalmers touring car which has been used as a demonstrator by the Atlanta dealer for the past seven months. In lowering the road record formerly held by K. T. McKinstry in a Reo Six, George also bettered the time of the famous Dixie Flyer, the fastest passenger train running in the south, by seven minutes. The 3400 R. P. M. Chalmers made the 125 miles between Atlanta and Chattanooga in three hours and fifty-three minutes, or thirty-seven minutes faster than the Reo Six.

Expects Only Few Mechanical Changes

"The coming season will not disclose any sensational novelties along mechanical lines in automobile construction," says Harry M. Jewett, president of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. "In view of past achievements in the world of mechanics, however, would be foolish to say there will be no more innovations or inventions. A genius may arise someday with a practical idea for motor cars that in its way will be as astonishing as flying or wireless telegraphy. But I can say that the general principles of motor power as applied to automobiles, and as exemplified in the six cylinder car are going to be standard for some time to come. Certainly there is not likely to be any radical engineering departures or changes in design this season.

Campaign Against Scattering Broken Glass

A campaign against the throwing of glass and other sharp substances on the streets and highways has been started by the Chillicothe Motor club. At a meeting recently the question of offering rewards for reports of violations of the law against this practice was discussed. A law prohibiting the throwing of substances liable to injure tires was one of the bills passed at the last session of the legislature after introduction through the Ohio State Automobile association.

TO THE OLDSMOBILE

True pleasure, in the eyes of men, consists of twenty million yen, a mansion set upon a hill, with ready game and time to kill, with horses sleek, or Oldsmobile, and coat of ermine, mink or seal, with diamonds fifty karat big, and all that's fine in dress or rig. Admit this twenty million yen finds lodgment with a few great men, why not begin to long and yearn for that good time when men will burn to share their treasure, just like hay, in a most altruistic way, and, driving to the game and time to kill, distribute greenbacks free as air. Then will we all have time to fill, of steaks and cysters eat our fill, and when we reach that tired feeling, we'll soon forget it Oldsmobile. (With apologies to Walt Mason and Fred Waldo Crockett).

U. S. Force In Mexico Too Small, He Thinks

Universal military service in America alone will produce the necessary impression of national strength to insure peace, in the opinion of Henry B. Joy, president of the Lincoln Highway Association, and of the Packard Motor Car Company, who has just returned from a study in Mexico of the army transport by motor truck.

The American force now in Mexico, according to Mr. Joy, is much too small to properly cover a territory so vast, and to maintain a line of communication over so great distances, and he foresees a more serious contingency from this cause. "If the situation in Mexico assumes a graver aspect than at present," he said, "it will come about from one plain cause, namely, that we have sent into Mexico a punitive expedition of just such a force as to make the Mexican people feel that if this is the best we can do in the way of a military display they can easily give our army a good trouncing.

"The size of our army—notwithstanding the bravery of its individual members—is an invitation to the Mexicans to fight us. Mobile, seasoned and effective as our force is, impressively so in proportion to its extent, it is not sufficiently large to overawe the Mexicans, much less a formidable foreign power.

MANY LIKE THE MITCHELL

The new 1917 Mitchell, which has been dubbed "The Six of '16," certainly is making a decided hit. Several local autoists have been calling on R. S. Pritchard, local agent, to inspect the various specifications of the new car. Forty-five hundred people in the United States have placed their orders with the firm and are now waiting for delivery of the new car. The big 45 acre Mitchell plant is working at capacity, twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week, to keep up with the demands for new cars.

Maxwell Reduces Price

Sometimes there is a surprise in the motor car industry that is funny only to a very few. Often the surprise is perpetrated to the chagrin of some particular person. But the Maxwell Motor Company seems to have sprung a surprise and yet to have made a really enjoyable bit of pleasure out of it for all concerned. During the months just previous to the company's 1917 announcement, there was a continual flood of letters into the Offices of the Maxwell Motor Company asking about prices for the coming season. In every letter there

It sets new economy standards.

It is light in weight, but 2040 lb. Exceptionally long tire-mileage results. It contains the ingenious idea of tiny piston ports for oil conservation. Owners report 15 to 26 miles to a gallon of gasoline, governed by conditions.

To our knowledge there is no other car you can purchase today that will give you this unusual economy. This, in addition to striking beauty of lines, roominess and 34.9 horsepower grit commend it to your use.

In his previous campaigns he has always carried his home county of Clermont by large majorities.

The New REO "SIX"

An Equipage A Croesus Might Covet—Yet A Modest American Family Posses

Here is a motor car, of such inherent excellence, both as to external beauty and mechanical quality, that the richest man in the world might well be proud of its possession. Yet, thanks to the marvelous achievements of science in our day and the matchless efficiency of the Reo organization and plants, this magnificent equipage is, in price and maintenance cost, well within the reach of tens of thousands who, in their most extravagant moments, never dreamed of anything so splendid. Mentally compare, if you can, this sweet-running, silent, beautiful thing with the best that could have been bought only three or four years ago, and you will marvel at the strides that have been made since then. We Reo Folk contend that one whose experience has been limited to others can have but a hazy conception of what we mean when we speak of Reo quality. Take this Six for example: one must drive it himself to appreciate its many points of superiority. Do that—you can drive this Reo Six if you have ever driven any automobile—and it will be a revelation to you. You will appreciate thereafter why this Reo has by common consent, been called "The Gold Standard of Values" in six-cylinder automobiles.

'Pop' Geers Driving A Ford Car

The horseless age has claimed the grand old man of the horse game. "Pop" Geers is driving a Ford car purchased recently from the Cleveland branch.

"I do this," said Pop as he cranked up his Ford rumbler, "so that I can get to my horses quicker."

And he further explained that he's not a speeder when in an auto—that it's only when he's back of a thoroughbred trotter or pacer that he goes against time. "I'm not looking for any automobile records," said he.

He also declined to pose for a photograph while driving his automobile—so he had to be snapped "I'm a horseman, not an automobilist," said "Pop." He will take the car around the racing circuit with him, using it to go to and from the prominent tracks of the country.

BUICK DEALERS ARE PERMANENT

Collins Comments says: "Buick dealers more than any others, are permanent. It is safe to say that the percentage of permanent exclusive Buick dealers is higher than in the case with any competing lines. As for this reason our dealers are able to more intelligently judge their market and more accurately forecast the motor car features that the public will demand in the future. Buick dealers, almost to the man, have established their business on a permanent basis. They have built not only for the present, but for the future as well, and they give more study and thought to their business for those reasons.

"A motor car dealer who is in business to stay, and who has aligned himself with one company in which he has confidence naturally will give more thought to his business than will the dealer who is in the business because he thinks there is some cream to be skimmed off, after which he will have to look to something else for a living."

The Splitdorf Electrical company has announced a 10 per cent monthly bonus to all employees to take effect at once. Over 1600 employees will be affected by the increase which will amount to about $150,000 per year.

Want Autoists To Help Keep The Cost Down

Akron, O., July 1.—In its current advertising in the newspaper, the B. F. Goodrich Co., is asking motorists to help the company in holding down and even further reducing the prices on automobile tires.

Fifteen per cent to 50 per cent could well be justified for Goodrich tires by fair comparison with other tires sold at 15 per cent to 50 per cent higher prices, for states the company, better fabric tires than Goodrich are not made and cannot be made at any price.

Inasmuch, however, as the value of owning an automobile depends on the number of hours of actual use derived therefrom, and as the extent of use depends largely upon the price of gasoline and tires, the Goodrich company believes in making it possible for a motorist to use his car a great deal by supplying tires at reasonable cost.

This was one of the reasons why in January, 1916, the Goodrich company inaugurated its fair list propaganda against high prices and "padded" price-lists on tires, and why the company continues to hold to its moderate fair list prices to the consumer.

He is looking fine and dandy and is the same genial fellow. He expects to remain in Portsmouth for the next ten days.

Maxwell

THE SAME CAR FOR LESS MONEY

BEAR in mind that the Maxwell car has not been changed. It is standardized. It will not be changed except in minor respects—where we see opportunities from time to time to make refinements and additional improvements.

The new price of $595 is only made possible by our greatly increased production and the fact that we specialize in only one automobile.

Every Maxwell car is identically the same as every other Maxwell car.

Last year the Maxwell car represented a big value. Many thousands of satisfied Maxwell owners are the evidence of that.

But this year—at the reduced price of $595—the Maxwell stands out as the one big automobile value of all time.

Nothing like it has ever been offered for the money.

Just consider, complete electrical equipment for starting and lighting; speedometer; demountable rims; one-man top; rain-vision windshield;—and every other device for the comfort and convenience of the owner.

Every thing that the expensive cars have. And good looks, comfort and economy of operation—that some of the others haven't.

There has been a nation-wide demand for Maxwell cars at the former price; there will be an overwhelming demand for these cars at the new price of $595.

And this proves that the American public has admitted and verified our unqualified claim that the Maxwell Motor Car is the Big, Outstanding Motor Car Value in the Country Today.

WHAT THE MAXWELL PRICE INCLUDES

CHAIRMEN'S REPLY TO L. E. JOHNSON

Replying to the letter of President L. E. Johnson, of the Norfolk and Western, addressed to the employees of that railway several days ago, another letter to the employees has been addressed by the chairmen of the four brotherhoods representing the employees in engine and train service on the Norfolk and Western Railway:

The letter follows:
Roanoke, Va., June 28, 1916.
To the Employees of the Norfolk and Western Railway and to the Public:

"There having been placed in the hands of practically all of the employees and published in the leading papers along the line of the Norfolk and Western Railway, a communication from the president of the Norfolk and Western Railway, Mr. L. E. Johnson, a statement setting forth in brief the position of the railway company regarding the results of the New York conference of managers and representatives of the employees in train and engine service, in which certain data is set forth to substantiate the position of the railway company in declining the requests of the men, and stating why the company cannot meet these requests, accordingly in justice to the men represented by the undersigned general chairmen, we deem it only proper to briefly set forth our side of the question, as follows:

"First—We believe that the requests of the employees are not unreasonable, excessive, nor of such gigantic proportions as to prohibit the railway in meeting them.

"Second—We do not believe that wages of employees represented by these four organizations are excessive, or that conditions of employment have been perfected to a point beyond which the employees dare not ask for additional relief or shorter hours.

"Third—We believe that men employed in train or engine service, whether in road or yard service, should be accorded a reasonable work day, based on the eight-hour minimum principle, with due regard to the present classification of districts or divisions, bearing in mind that eight hours shall be the basis for one hundred miles, but where districts are now more than one hundred miles that the railway company should have the advantage of such conditions, accordingly a twelve miles and one-half per hour is fixed as the basis of computation, which is eight hours for one hundred miles and accordingly hours on the speed of twelve and one-half miles to govern on these districts over one hundred miles.

"Fourth—In order to prevent the use of men over the period of eight hours or a speed basis of twelve and one-half miles per hour for runs longer than one hundred miles, a penalty proposition is provided, to insure the enforcement of this proposition, by compelling the railway company to pay at the rate of time and one-half time for all time used in excess of the time required under this rule. We believe this proposition is well.

"Fifth—We call attention to the fact that stress has been laid on the declaration of the representatives of the employees to submit the pending propositions to the Interstate Commerce Commission or to arbitration under the provisions of the Newlands Act. This in substance we accept as correct, with the exception that the representatives of the men declined to permit to go to arbitration the so-called 'Yard Stick' of the Managers' Conference Committee, which had as its object the measuring out of existence every rule in the present agreements which anything to the employees. We declined to submit our case to the Interstate Commerce Commission, because this body has no powers to act in such matters, and we declined to join in congressional action because we considered it only fair that these committees representing the different interests thoroughly capable of adjusting these matters, without the interference of the congress of the United States.

"We set forth the following reasons for our position as set forth above:

"Attention is called in Mr. Johnson's letter to the increases in the wages of employees for a period of years 1897 to 1915, which he states has in some instances reached 128 per cent, and the average of more than 50 per cent.

"This we accept as a fairly well stated proposition. We also find a quotation from Mr. Johnson stating what has been the increase in the cost per freight train mile, which for the same period was 116 per cent. Thus we also accept as correct.

We will accept the statement that great strides have been made in the improvement of the equipment of the railway company, which is used by the employees, who also accept other classes of employees, because they develop one in the aggregate, is well up as compared with other classes of employees, but we as well call attention to the hours of service.

"Now, let us consider the earnings of the Norfolk and Western Railway for the year closing June 30, 1900, when the gross earnings were $11,236,124, and for the year closing June 30, 1915, when the gross earnings were $4,875,973, or for the year on this basis would be $56,123,676, or an increase of $44,887,552, or nearly 400 per cent increase. We have available figures for the year closing June 30, 1914, were $3,889,090, as compared with $1,995,882 for the month of April, 1916, or for the year on this basis would be $23,980,584, or an increase of $20,092,548, or an increase in net rates of time and one-half for overtime. Also, if the overtime is cut out, as we are asking that it be done, it will add to the efficiency of the service and not cost the railway company one cent's increase above present rates paid the employees.

"In our submissions, we have not asked for anything in the way of increases in rates of pay, only that the overtime rate be increased to time and one-half time, yet your attention is called to the cost of $1,514,211 cost per annum it places on the Norfolk and Western railway. Let us see what this means? The only additional burden would be on the overtime basis, and that only one-half more than the pro rata rates. Now supposing that the overtime pro rata rates averaged 50 cents an hour, which is reasonable, it would mean 25 cents per hour additional burden placed upon the railway company; this would mean that the employees would have to make 6,656,976 hours overtime per annum. This divided among the estimated number of employees represented by these four organizations of 4,753, means that each employee must make 1,273 hours overtime per year, or an average of nearly four hours per day per man each day during the year. These startling figures no doubt will be convincing as to why the employees' wages average $2.75 for nine hours and five minutes' work. A through freight conductor receives the sum of $4.10 for nine hours and five minutes' work. A local freight brakeman, the man who has to handle the heavy local freight from the cars to the platforms, the very hardest of work, receives the rate of $3.00 per day of nine hours and five minutes. The through freight brakeman, riding on the tops of the long trains regardless of the weather, hazards, or whether it is daylight or night, receives the meager sum of $2.75 for nine hours and five minutes' work. The hod carrier is home every night; the trainman is away from home at least every other night at an expense that the hod carrier does not have to bear.

"We will go further in this and show that the figures quoted by some authorities giving the average wage of trainmen at $1.240 per year and see what it means. A through freight brakeman receiving $2.75 for a nine hours and five minutes day, would have to work 487 days per year to earn this money, or more than 4,124 hours, when as a matter of common fact it would compel these men to work about twelve hours per day for every day in the year, no Sundays off, no holidays off, no time for recreation, no time for anything only work and sleep. According to these figures are you surprised that the train service men are asking for an eight-hour day? These figures as well convince one that it is only a matter of a few short years until these men are forced to the industrial scrap heap.

"Now let us consider the expenses of railway employees in road service, for example, and see how he fares in the final wind-up. You take a through freight brakeman making $2.75 per day, or $5.50 for two days work. At least four of the six meals in these two days are taken away from home, as well he has to pay for a bed away from home every other night. This means about as follows:

Four meals at an average of 40 cents per meal..... $1.60
One night's lodging..... .50
For the two days away from home..... $2.10

"Now take the sum total he receives of $5.50 for the two days and deduct his actual expenses while away from home of $2.10, leaves the sum of $3.40 for two days or $1.70 per day, or $620.50 for the year for nine hours and five minutes. Further attention is called to the fact that each nine minutes one of these men is injured and each one hundred and sixteen minutes one loses his life on the railways of the United States. While this man is away from home his expenses at home are about the same as if he were at home.

"We further call attention to the statement made that this means an enormous increase to the railway company; it could only come through overtime, because the rates are not to be disturbed. We call attention to the sworn statement of the eastern railroads in the arbitration hearings of the engineers, when it was stated under oath that the average time consumed in making one hundred miles, or at least 78 per cent of through and irregular freight service, was not in excess of seven hours and thirty minutes. If this was correct then there would not be a single one of these runs in question that would be affected by the proposals of the employees, and as a matter of fact, there could be added thirty minutes more to the time and still not cost any more. As well during the western arbitration hearings of the engineers and firemen, it was stated by the managers that 78 per cent of the through and irregular freight service in that territory was on runs averaging 112 miles between terminals, and the running time averaged 8 hours and 24 minutes. On the basis of 112 miles the running time before any overtime would begin would be 8 hours and 57 minutes, according to these figures there would be a margin of 33 minutes. So when these figures are stripped of all their glitterings and subjected to the broad daylight of actual facts it can be readily seen that the railway employees have just grounds for their contentions, and the facts are substantiated that it is not increases in wages that the men are seeking but a shorter work day.

"An appeal has gone forward to the employees to take good counsel and consider carefully before indicting upon themselves, their families, their company and the public, the want, the suffering, the inconvenience and financial disaster which must follow a strike. We as well ask the employees to consider, the yard stick of the manager's conference committee, which by the admission of the committee itself, will take away from you all the arbitrary allowances now in your agreements, that permits the tearing down of home terminals, the running of men around each other, and compels men, if the company so desires, to perform service that they have for years recognized was not proper. As well consider the wife and babies at home, consider you are due at least some consideration in the way of home comforts, that you are not a machine but human, asking for only those things that are now recognized by your federal government as being correct, as recognized by numerous states as being correct, that which is accorded to other classes of labor, and after so doing we are satisfied what your verdict will be. To the public we say with candor and frankness that we have no desire to disturb their peace of mind or inflict upon them any inconvenience, nor will we do so if we can consistently prevent, but we are certain that our requests are reasonable, humane and right; therefore, we being servants of the great public, performing daily the greatest service to the nation, accordingly we ask fair reasonable consideration at your hands, that in the end humanity may be measured by justice and not by the standard of the American dollar, neither by a 'yard stick' created by capital to crucify labor. And to the railway company, we have nothing but the highest regards for our company and its officers, but we differ on the question of human rights as against the cost necessary to safeguard the employees in this instance and hope that a peaceful and amicable adjustment may be reached; however, if the worst comes to the worst it will have to be met in the best possible manner.

Local German's View Of European War

(Written by Louis F. Korth, former Editor of The Correspondent.)

Friday, June 30, 1916.
The Germans have again made a big step forward on the Verdun front by storming the fortified Froid de Terre ridge from Doncourt village to the Thiamont redoubt (not farm) which crowns the Fleury height just north of big Fort Souville on the St. Michel-Verdun pike. The ridge has not only been a shield to the French against frontal attacks but has also enabled them to direct an effective flank fire on the German lines along the Cote de Lorraine and on their Woerwe positions.

By the capture of the ridge, of Fort Thiamont and a chain of masked batteries adjacent to it the Germans now command a strong straight front from Doncourt to the Woerwe to Fleury on the pike that runs south to Fort Souville, Port St. Michel and Verdun. Paris says: "The Germans are only 3 1/2 miles from the big fortress," which means from Fort Souville on the inner ring.

On Sunday and Tuesday heavy massed attacks were made by the French on the new German positions. The Berlin war office reports: "They were everywhere repulsed with very heavy loss to the assailants. We made 2,673 prisoners, among them 61 officers."

On Thursday Paris said that the Germans tried to advance again northwest of Fort Thiamont but were checked.
If we judge conditions aright the crucial test for Verdun has come. All of Nivelle's positions north of the fortress are under siege. Should he be forced to withdraw across the river it will not be possible without the heaviest loss of men and material.

The French are battling with the courage of desperation to dislodge the Germans again from the Froid de Terre and keep them from reaching river and bridge for junction with the forces on the other side, which would settle their fate. The losses of attack and attack are fearful. The next few weeks will tell the tale.

Ever since the fall of Doncourt in early March the world has been wondering why the British did not come to the help of their hard pressed ally at Verdun. A general coalescence of force of all the allied forces east, south and west to end the war at one stroke had been planned at the Paris war council, we heard from London. Germany and Austria anticipated it. But now they all are starting. Heavy masses are in motion all along the British sixty mile front.

from the La Bassée Canal to the Somme river, where it joins the northern French lines, is the report of flyers. London has sent out no victory bulletins yet although fighting has been going on again in the canal region. From the daily reports it appears however, that the British by patrol attacks are feeling the German lines for weak spots. Berlin reports very heavy British artillery activity in the sector Bapaume-Péronne-Hamel, which is taken as the prelude of a general infantry attack on that part of the German line for a drive toward its Belgian communications.

Assaults by the British and French were repulsed on Thursday, Berlin says, while London and Paris claim successes in the Besumont-Hamel sector.

In the east there have been successful demonstrations from Ilustsk on Hindenburg's Duena front and at Moldechno after repulse of Russian attacks and very heavy fighting again in Volhynia where Linsingen continues to clear the Sty country.

Petrograd sticks to its daily paper victories in Volhynia, Galicia and between Pruth and Dniester with tens of thousands of prisoners.

Linsingen states that he drove the Russians again west of Solui on the Stockhold line beyond Zublin and Vinievska, where they suffered tremendous losses. He says: "The number of prisoners is steadily growing." As he had 11,000 already by late accounts it appears that he is not going backward and let the Russ pick up prisoners but is doing it himself.

In Bukovina it does not look either like a walk-over for the Russians through the Carpathians into Hungary, as they own up to heavy fighting and stout resistance by the Austro-Hungarians. Pfanz-Baltin has taken up new positions west of Kimpolung near the passes after rallying his troops and reports that at Kutly he has repulsed two heavy attacks.

The isolated campaign in Bukovina does not have the importance which Petrograd tries to give it, as the Russian offensive has been brought to a standstill north of the Dniester. Linsingen has the northern right wing of Brusiloff's army in the shears. Bolshur is holding the center on the Stripa, neither right wing nor center have been able to push their advance to Lemberg, their objective, and establish a straight line, the left wing on Dniester and Pruth in the Bukovina country.

ity is consequently in the air until it can connect with the main body.

This is how Vienna critics explain the situation in their comments on the battle of Kolomea where Pfanzers' left wing was partially forced back by superior forces.

In Trentino the Austrians have had to shorten their front between Adige and Brenta and give up advanced positions hard to defend. Rome claims the whole Asa valley with Asiago. A Rome cable of June 27 says: "The Italians have re-captured Posina and Arsiero." As Cadorna never admitted the loss of Asiago and Arsiero this shows how the war news has been doctored in Rome to deceive the people and keep it in ignorance about real war conditions.

The Vienna war office states that the Austrian retirement, not a retreat before the enemy but a re-occupation was accomplished in good order without even rear guard fights or loss of any kind. The Italians did not become aware of it until too late to hinder it, Vienna states. Some local Austrian successes with 580 prisoners have been reported this week.

While there is no news from Saloniki and the Balkan where Bulgars and French keep on dogging each other on the Vardar river and Doiran Lake Constantinople reports important Turkish successes in Armenia (Caucasus) where the Russians were driven from the Choruk river ridges between Erzerum and Trebizonde with heavy losses.

The Turks also cleared the Paltak pass on the Persia-Mesopotamia frontier.
Of the Caucasus battle the Turkish war office has to say: "Our troops took the ridge with the bayonet after a most stubborn resistance of the enemy, who was strongly fortified. He made several furious counter attacks to regain the heights but was driven back with great loss. We have taken 1,500 prisoners, large stores of provisions and much other material."

The Italian auxiliary cruiser Citta di Messina and the French destroyer Fouché have been torpedoed in the Strait of Otranto, Adriatic. The cruiser was sunk first whereupon the destroyer turned upon the enemy submarine, which submerged but shortly afterward came up again and finished the destroyer. The crews were apparently saved.

The British Great Eastern railway liner Brussels, with passengers and a cargo of margarine, butter, lard, bacon and eggs from Rotterdam to London was brought up in the North Sea by a German destroyer and towed to Zeebrugge, where the German barbers probably had a feast at the expense of the British skipper.

The Berlin correspondent of the Associated Press has been authorized by the German Foreign office to declare that all assertions about German meddling in Mexico are malicious inventions. A high official stated: "We recognized Carranza on the solicitation of the Washington administration. After Carranza was officially recognized it was self-understood that our representative in Mexico entertained friendly relations with the de facto government just as Washington did."

Sir Roger Casement, the Irish patriot, who was on trial for life in London for bringing a munition ship for the revolutionists as far as the Irish coast where it was sunk by a British cruiser, has declared on the stand under oath, that the Germans had nothing to do with the Irish revolution and did not contribute a penny for it. Sir Roger has been sentenced to death.

The German admiralty claims to have established by the testimony of British officers and sailor prisoners that the whole British high sea fleet, which is as big again as the German, was engaged in the Skagerrac battle.

A fine naval feat has been accomplished by the German submarine U. 25 in entering Carthage, the far eastern Mediterranean port of Spain, under the nose of the British and French cruisers and delivering a personal letter of the German emperor to the Spanish king thanking him for favors shown the defenders of Kamerun who after a brave fight had to seek refuge in the neighboring Spanish Guinea on the South African west coast where they are interned. The submarine passed through the British channel and the Strait of Gibraltar which are full of British watch dogs.

England's loss of credit is demonstrated by the facts that the disagio of the first war loan has risen to 1-8 and that of the second to 7 per cent. The British government is doubtful about placing a third loan upon the market, although the parliament has granted the credit for it. Short time treasury notes are to be issued instead, a rather precarious measure considering the financial status of the country. A German financial authority has figured out that England's war cost per day, including subsidies to her allies, is double that of Germany.

On Corpus Christi day during the procession, when thousands of people were on the streets, French flyers bombarded Karlsruhe, the open capital of Baden. 110 persons, among them five women and 75 children, were killed and 174 persons wounded. Treves (Trier) and Badish Muelheim, also unfortified towns, were bombarded on the same day by the same flotilla.

The German Chancellor has publicly endorsed the statement of the Socialist leader, Philip Scheidemann, that he is as much opposed to the annexation of Belgium and to the over-reaching policy of the Pan-German expansionists today as he always has been. He had been challenged by the latter to disavow Scheidemann.

Holland's embargo on produce exports to Germany has created a shortage of potatoes in the Rhine country which has been partly lifted by large shipments of cereals and fodder from the east to those parts. As to foodstuffs England with the world market to draw from but with daily diminishing tonnage seems to be no better off than "starving Germany." Daily Telegraph means the fate of the workingman who has to spend the greater part of his earnings for bread and butter and cannot think of saving. Flour, bread and meat are very high. Butter and eggs are luxuries to him. Even horseflesh is getting scarce. Poor people have to do without sugar. All countries in Europe are suffering alike. Famine everywhere.

Financial papers state, that the three largest banks of Italy, Banca di Italia, Banca di Napoli and Banca di Sicilia, have advised against a third war loan. As the first two loans found no takers among the people at large the Italian minister of finance, Carcano, will be forced to issue war paper, a Rome correspondent says.
The International Agricultural Institute in Rome predicts a shortage of crops in Italy, Western Europe, Japan and Canada. The French paper L'Ouvre writes: "The crops can't be brought in. The farm workers are in the field and the military commands don't grant furloughs."

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

Most people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Most thin people stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat producing elements of their food just stay there in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will purify their blood and absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition it is well to recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is simply a careful combination of six of the most effective and powerful assimilative and flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet has been wonderful effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often, according to reports of users, has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Fisher and Streich pharmacy and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

"Trouble Bug" Released In City, Motley Crowd Faces Mayor Kaps

The "Trouble Bug" worked overtime in the city Friday night. Clarence Courtney, a painter and steel worker, who said his name was Casey Jones, met on Market street last night. Courtney says that Jones walked on his feet and when he mistook them he says, for the sidewalk, he "pasted him one". Jones was picked up from the street by Officer George Harding, who also placed Courtney under arrest. In police court this morning Jones was fined $10, as he struck the first blow, the police say, and Courtney was fined $5. The latter paid up and was released. Jones was defiant in court, saying that he wouldn't pay up and he wouldn't work it out. He still languishes.

Mary Starks and Florence Jackson are colored. They engaged in a verbal battle last night. No blood was shed. Mrs. Starks was arrested on a slander charge preferred by Mrs. Jackson. Mayor Kaps dismissed the charge.
William Jones was the name a man gave in police court Saturday morning, he being charged with making an insulting remark to Nellie Turner, colored, of the North End. Three other men were with him but they escaped. Jones was nabbed at Tenth and Chillicothe streets by Capt. Romu Walker. He was found guilty in police court this morning and fined $25.

Florence and Nora Craycraft were the names given by two residents of Front street, charged with disorderly conduct. Officers

She offered to buy the privilege of passage through Belgium for her army so as to protect it against flank attack, when her life depended upon it. There was no such danger for the British army at the invasion of Greece. The danger was brought about by the invasion. As to the neutrality matter Germany guaranteed Belgium neutrality in the early part of the last century, but the treaty lapsed in 1872. Britain's guarantee of Greece's neutrality and national independence is still in force," says the Cologne Gazette.

TO CHICAGO belongs the honor of being the birth place of beautiful Clara Kimball Young. Her father Edward M. Kimball, was a native of Wisconsin. Her mother was a descendant of Lord and Lady Beccour. Miss Young received her education at St. Xavier's Academy, in Chicago, and at a convent.

Her first public appearance was made at the age of three, when she was carried on during a play presented by an old-repertoire company. Her dramatic experience was obtained mostly in stock companies. It was easy for her to drift into pictures, and the Vitagraph company was the first to employ her. Her most successful pictures with this company were "The Little Minister," "Love's Sunset," "Poet and Peasant," and "His Official Wife." She remained with this corporation until several months ago when she joined the World Film company. "Camille," "Tribby" and "The Yellow Passport" were her greatest successes under World direction.

Now she heads her own company. She is married to James Young, the talented actor and director.

Without any doubt, the program to be presented to the patrons of the Columbia during the entire of next week, is the strongest and best program for six consecutive days ever offered in Portsmouth. Just take a glance at this list and stop and consider the real stars of the motion picture world who will appear each day, starting on Monday with Dorothy Gish and Owen Moore featured in "Little Meena's Romance," a most interesting five-part story from the hands of D. W. Griffith. Monday's Keystone comedy is "A Bath House Blunder," with Charles Murray.

Tuesday brings the beautiful Marguerite Snow in "A Corner in Cotton," a five act Metro production, introducing many interesting children and giving you an attraction for July Fourth that will surely please.

Don't forget William Farnum on Wednesday in "Fighting Blood," an unusually attractive picture, taken from the popular poem of "My Old Kentucky Home." Mr. Farnum is seen at his very best as "The Fighting Par-

drama. William S. Hart, who everybody likes to see, will be with us again on Thursday in "The Ayron," a thrilling five part story of early frontier life. Mr. Hart is supported in this picture with pretty Bessie Love.

Then don't forget Thursday's comedy with Fatty Arbuckle in "His Wife's Mistake," one of the funniest comedies on the entire Triangle program.

By requests from many admirers of Theda Bara, Manager Tynes announces that he has succeeded in booking "A Fool There Was" for Friday. This is considered by many as Miss Bara's greatest and best picture.

For Saturday you will see "The Danger Signal," a five part Kleine production taken from "Caravan, The Man Who Had His Way," by Rupert Hughes, and featuring two such stars as Arthur Hoops and Ruby Hoffman.

A REGULAR GUY

Arthur Ashley, hero of "Sealed Lips," "The Struggle," "Tangled Fates," and shortly to be co-starred with Frances Nelson in "What Happened at 22," is first of all, a man's man. He is of the great outdoors, an automobile enthusiast, the proud possessor of several high-speed machines that tear away at mileposts with utmost ease, and which hum as gently as a boy's top. He drives his own cars, and when anything goes wrong he is just the boy to get out an' get under."

That nothing may be lacking in the realism of the luncheon scenes in "Gloria's Romance," the new George Kleine motion picture novel in which Billie Burke is the featured star, one of New York's best caterers was engaged to supply all the luncheons, dinners, etc., that are shown.

Synopsis of "A Perilous Love," Chapter Three of "Gloria's Romance" Showing at the Lyric Monday

Gloria Stafford, daughter of Pierpont Stafford, millionaire banker, and sister of David Stafford, finds herself in love with Richard Fremont, after she thinks she has been rescued from a band of Seminole Indians in the Florida Everglades by him. In reality Doctor Heyes saved Gloria, and is likewise in love with the fair haired daughter of the millionaire. When Pierpont tries to pay Fremont off with a check for a large sum, the young broker declares it is Gloria he wants. To prevent the offer going farther, Pierpont bundles Gloria back to New York and later sends her to a fashionable girl's boarding school, it being understood that she is not to see or communicate with Fremont for five years, and if at the end of that time they still love one another, they may marry. Gloria spends her five years dreaming of Dick and enjoying a girl's pranks at college, but Fremont goes into partnership with Frank Mulry on the stock exchange and finds business a losing gamble. Lois Freeman has married David Stafford in the meanwhile, but girls outrageously with Fremont on the night Lois and Fremont are married at the opera house, then, Gloria returns from school, and her father celebrates by a visit to the opera.

The Movies

Marguerite Snow in "A Corner in Cotton" at the Columbia 4th of July

Marguerite Snow, the delightful young screen star, will be seen here at the Columbia on next Tuesday in "A Corner in Cotton," a five-part Metro wonder-play produced by the Quality Pictures Corporation. Miss Snow will be surrounded by an all-star cast, which includes Frank Bacon, the foremost character actor of the stage and screen, Lester Cuneo, Helen Drumbar, J. W. Goldworthy, Zella Call, Howard Truesdell, William Clifford and Wilfred Iloger. This feature was produced under the personal direction of Fred J. Balshofer, who has long been one of the leading producers of motion pictures. The production abounds with a wealth of interesting scenes.

Popular Alice Brady and Holbrook Blinn, in a magnificent production of "The Ballet Girl," adapted from the novel "Carnival" by Compton Mackenzie, will be the big World Film Feature at the Lyric on Wednesday.

William Farnum and Dorothy Bernard, Columbia Wednesday. The Columbia on next Wednesday offers one of the great pictures of the year in "Fighting Blood," a five-part picture taken from the popular old poem of "My Old Kentucky Home" and characters he has assumed in moving pictures.

Theda Bara in "A Fool There Was" Columbia Friday.

So many requests have been made for a return of "A Fool There Was" with Theda Bara that Manager Tynes announces this great picture for next Friday afternoon and evening.

FLASHES

Manager George Law of the Exhibit theatre announces the following bookings of five part Mutual Masterpieces for Saturdays in July and August: "The Hidden Law," "The Leopard's Bride," "Stain in the Blood," "I Accuse," "The Traffic Cop," "My Pardner," "The Net."

When the improvements underway at the Columbia are completed, Manager Tynes will have a "living" flag stationed in the foyer. It will be lighted every night.

Three more legitimate houses in New York took up movies this week.

"The Fall of a Nation" is said to be as big a pictorial production as "The Birth of a Nation."

Work on the addition being added to the Columbia theatre is moving along at a rapid clip. The building will be ready for the plasterers in three weeks.

Louisville is receiving two beautiful moving picture houses.

Now that the summer season is on, over 25 moving picture houses will be running full blast in Atlantic City.

Dorothy Gish is now a god-mother. The child was recently born in Los Angeles, and the Triangle star proudly claims the title.

De Wolf Hopper, the Triangle star, says the reason why he is enjoying his motion picture experience, is that in each of his Triangle plays to date he has had scenes necessitating the serving of choice food.

Forty thousand dollars have been paid by one theatre in Chicago for the exclusive advance showing of the new motion picture novel, "Gloria's Romance"—and still they call 'em jitney shows.

Richard Walton Tully, the play-wright, is contemplating carefully a brand new stab in his check book as a result of an unsuccessful attempt to convince the Supreme Court that the Triangle Film Corporation had interfered with his copyright rights to his play, "The Bird of Paradise," in their feature film, "Aloha Oe."

Those of the Triangle-Ince forces who are making the Inceville plant their headquarters, are finding reason to rejoice this week over the fact that they must spend the greater part of their time on the picturesque 18,000 acre ranch.

After waiting vainly for some moneyed film magnate to meet her price of $10,000 per week, Eva Tanguay, the vaudeville headliner, plunged into the screen pool, "on her own," just to see how the water was. With the announcement of her first screen comedy came the statement that she was contemplating a western tour at the head of her own vaudeville company.

Charlie Chaplin in his latest Mutual comedy, "The Fireman," a two-reel screen, with Charlie playing the Hero Fireman, will be shown at the Lyric, Monday. These "Mutual Chaplin Comedies" are the only genuine Chaplins now being shown. Charlie Chaplin works exclusively for the "Mutual."

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, two local favorites, are on the program Monday, also in "The Circle of Fate," a dramatic feature.

GERALDINE FARRAR AT LYRIC NEXT TUESDAY, IN NEW FILM, "MARIA ROSA"

"Maria Rosa," the photoplay that made Geraldine Farrar a bride—will be the attraction at the Lyric on Tuesday. This is the third production made by Miss Farrar for the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, the others being "Carmen" and "Temptation."

It has been called "the photoplay that made Geraldine Farrar a bride" because it was while Miss Farrar was at the Lasky studios in California last summer making this production that she first met Mr. Louis Tellegen, the striking young actor whom she married in New York several months ago. The romance had its start under the clear blue skies of Southern California, while the two artists were in each other's company daily. Lou-Tellegen was at the Lasky studios at the same time appearing in picture version of "The Unknown" and "The Explorer."

In "Maria Rosa," a Paramount picture, Miss Farrar will have a part quite different from the role of "Carmen," or Rene Dupree in "Temptation."

MR. POTTS SECURES PREPAREDNESS FILM

Manager Fred Potts, of the Arcana theatre, at an extra expense, has succeeded in booking the moving pictures taken of the big preparedness parade held in Cincinnati last week. The parade was the biggest thing ever staged in the Queen City, thousands taking part.

Every detail of the parade is shown. The reel of film will be shown in addition to the regular four-reel program on July Fourth. There will be no change in the price of admission.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Marie Empress is now at Los Angeles, vamping in the tropical Sun!

Marguerite Clark is to appear again on the legitimate stage next year.

Doris Kenyon is summering at Saranac Lake. Also working while she summers.

Harry Houdini, the mystic, is working on a new film developer.

William A. Brady was a pioneer film man. He controlled Hale's Tours back in 1901.

He also made the first picture by night—those of the Corbett-Courtney fight at Coney Island in 1900.

Lubin, a pioneer, is no more in the producing line—he has amassed a tremendous fortune—and deserves it.

The General Film, once the mightiest of distributors, is about to go into the hands of permanent receivers.

Edwin August has taken a decided step against press agents—mayhap it is because the one he worked with couldn't get his name in often enough.

"The Velvet Paw" was centered at Washington. President Wilson looked on from a window in the White House.

Allee Brady is assembling a red cross division to go to Mexico in the event of war. She will pay all expenses.

Dillon A Real Contender

This boy Jack Dillon showed the New York fight fans a high class exhibition of fistic wares when he played Frank Moran Thursday night. Dillon is not a real contender for the heavyweight championship and he will probably not stop until he has dragged Champion Jess Willard into the same ring with him.

Dillon is one of the gamest as well as the cleverest two-handed fighters in the arena game today.

Fans Believe Ferguson Would Have Delivered

Local fans were surprised to learn that the Cleveland Indians had sent Pitcher John Ferguson back to the Champs so soon. Many believe that the local hurler would have given a good account of himself had Lee Kohl only given him an opportunity to use his arm. Ferguson is not downhearted, and he expects to be picked up by some other big league team before September 1.

FIRST HALF FLAG WON BY CHAMPS

By winning from the Frankfort team yesterday, 4 to 2, the Champs cinched the first half flag in the Ohio State League. The team has seven more games to play and the Champs can lose them all and finish ahead of the Lexington Colts, who have won 14 out of their last 15 games. Doray for Manager Spencer and his gallant teammates.

PLAYERS IN CLASH

Washington, July 1.—A row between Captain McBride of the Washington team, and Mays, the Boston pitcher, precipitated a clash in the third inning of yesterday's game here that threatened for a time to develop into a general fight among the players of the two clubs. The police restored order and after Agnew, a Boston catcher, had been arrested and Captain McBride and Manager Griffith, of the Washingtons, put off the field, the game was resumed and Boston won 5 to 1.

The trouble started when Mays hit McBride with a pitched ball.

One Woman's Way

A West Philadelphia woman is still smarting over the "compliment" that a guest paid her when she was hostess at an entertainment a week ago. The West-Philadelphia woman, whose name is not Brown, prides herself especially on her coffee, and she made some of her best for this occasion.

Among the guests was a woman who makes it a practice always to compliment persons with whom she comes in contact. She says it makes others feel pleasant and doesn't hurt her. During the refreshments this guest turned to the woman whose name is not Brown and said:

"Your tea is so delicious! May I have another cup?" Philadelphia Ledger.

ONLY FIVE BATTERS IN THE .300 CLASS

Three hundred hitters are rare in the American league, only five batters who have played in at least half of the games of their clubs being in that class. Speaker increased his average but Jackson kept pace with him. Baker, New York, though not in the .300 class, took the lead in his old specialty, home runs, with six. Speaker leads in total bases with 127 and in runs scored with 51, the latter department being one head in front of Cobb.

Speaker, Cleveland .381; Jackson, Chicago .373; Cobb, Detroit .350; Heilmann, Detroit .316; Sisti, St. Louis .311; Smith, Cleveland .299; Gardner, Boston .291; Veach, Detroit .293; Sluik, Philadelphia .283; Detroit, with .259, leads the latter department being one head in front of Cobb.

KENNEDY AT LARGE; VICTIM IS BURIED

Greer "Red" Kennedy, charged with the murder of Charles H. Hill, who died in the Hempstead hospital after receiving two bullet wounds, one in the head and one in the abdomen, is still at large. Kennedy crossed into Kentucky from Sciotoville after the shooting and no trace of him has been found, according to Sheriff Pote Smith.

"We are making a determined effort to apprehend Kennedy, but so far we have been unable to get a single trace of the alleged murderer," Sheriff Smith stated Saturday morning. "Kentucky authorities have been furnished a description of Kennedy and they have been asked to keep a close lookout for him. The body of the victim, Charles H. Hill, was buried in Greenlawn Saturday morning."

Bond Issue May Be Asked To Supply Funds For The Mexican Situation

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Treasury officials were busy today figuring the treasury's net balance for the fiscal year which ended last midnight with a view to determining whether a bond issue will be necessary to care for the extraordinary expenses of the Mexican crisis.

There is an agreement between administration leaders to ask congress to authorize such a bond issue in the event the ordinary resources of the treasury and the additional $210,000,000 expected from the administration revenue bill are not sufficient.

The expenses incident to the Mexican emergency already provided for are estimated at approximately $125,000,000. This, as well as any further expense would be covered in the proposed bond issue.

Authority to issue bonds may not be sought from congress if the treasury supply is large enough. This should be known today. At the close of business yesterday it was $174,171,845 and prospects were that it would be increased to more than $200,000,000.

The administration omnibus revenue bill, which will raise $210,000,000 was ready for introduction in the house today. The Democratic leaders plan to begin consideration of the measure in the house next Thursday under a special rule providing for a final vote before adjournment Saturday.

"Jumpy" --- No Energy---Liver Clog- ged and Poisoning Nervous System

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water
Will Start Your Liver and Quiet Your Nerves in Half an Hour

Physicians from all over the United States send nervous, run down patients to Dawson Springs, Kentucky—the home of Tollo Water. They have learned by experience that drinking this water cleans out the liver and thus aids the whole system to regain normal health and energy.

Nervous, irritable people—those who wake up in the mornings with "headaches" and so "all tired out" that just the thought of another day is discouraging, will find a Tollo Water liver bath before breakfast a great help. It will make you feel fine in less than half an hour.

Too much rich, starchy food clogs the minute bile ducts of the liver and the bile cannot flow freely into the bowels to clean out the waste as Nature requires. This bile, seeking an outlet, backs up into the system. The result is a disordered condition that cannot fail to affect the nerves and every organ of the body.

To dose oneself with such dangerous drugs as calomel at such time is folly. They are very liable to salivate and upset the stomach. At best, they simply afford temporary relief attended by gripping, sickening pains.

Try a Tollo Water liver bath occasionally. Just get a 15 cent bottle of Tollo Water at your druggists and take about a third of a tumbler full in a glass of drinking water, before breakfast. Within 30 minutes you will feel entirely different—brighter, more energetic—filled with greater vim and strength. Try it.

FROM NEITHER ANGLE

A doctor of some note is forward with the suggestion that all prescriptions be written in English, instead of Latin designations. He offers as desirability for the change that in plain English there would be less liability to the fatal errors that sometimes occur under the present practice. This sounds reasonable, but no great importance should be attached to it.

Where a pharmacist makes a deadly mistake in compounding this is not through inability to decipher the hieroglyphics of the physician, but through carelessness. Any clerk ought to have and in these days the laws sees he does have, enough general knowledge of drugs to know their assumed effects. Certainly, he ought to have knowledge of those that are actively poisonous. If he misreads a prescription as calling for a deadly ingredient he ought to have sense enough to realize the mistake and refuse to compound that particular prescription. So the matter of language of the prescription is not really essential and it might better be left just as it is. For in the first place the patient is better satisfied in paying for something that is altogether a sealed matter to him and in the second place a large portion of the efficacy of medicine consists in the state of mind of him who takes it. He believes medicine will help him, is more firmly convinced it will because he is taking something that is all a mystery to him.

THE BETTER WAY

Anticipating that its militia company would be called to the front, Hamilton proposed to get upon a great public demonstration on its departure to show "the boys" that the folks back home gloried in them and would hold them in fond and proud memory while they were battling for the flag.

The captain of the company, however, seems to have the sensible courage, out of which the real fighting soldier is made, and he suggested, that if the citizens really wanted to show their appreciation of the service "the boys" were about to render their country, the better way would be to cut out the general flubdub and donate to the company the sum the demonstration might cost, in order that its members might be supplied with small articles, not included in the governmental accoutrement, that would add vastly to their comfort and welfare. Of course the merit of the suggestion was recognized and the big blow off canceled, and the company's private purse enriched with a substantial sum that is far more eloquent of appreciation and helpful than any demonstration could possibly have been.

If the people at Washington feel they do not know how to run a war the experts from almost any newspaper office are at their beck and call.

Ohio troops are concentrating and may be they too will be ordered to the border. The only surprising thing is that they are not there already for the old commonwealth is ever at the fore in peace and was never known to let anybody cut ahead of her in war.

We are not much given to pedestrian speed ourselves, but our judgment is that the Austrians will beat the Russians to the Carpathian mountains.

And so far we fail to hear the clarion voice of one Richard Hobson. Can it be it has become so tuned to the dulcet of the chautauqua that it can no longer be used for its country's alarm?

We are not going to ask is it hot enough for you?

The traction line is to get to Franklin Furnace this week, and thus the day is near dawn that Ironton will wake up and find herself the blessed suburb of a real live city.

The optimist is busy building a street car line around Cole's boulevard, but we don't see any of the poles strung yet.

The good Dr. Fess is surely hurt that that rugged old war dog, General Kiefer, having taken on a new lease of life, is a candidate against him for congressional nomination. The good doctor should know that no politician can be so saintly that some other ancient relic of a politician will not covet his job.

Just think. Congress has got to toil and toil through the broiling summer and the people have got to stand for it all.

Representative Gray, of Indiana, is one congressman that isn't afraid to stand up and be counted. He tells the postal employees of his district that he is not in favor of pensions to government civil service employees. Aye, he goes a bit further and says, that as a rule, being better paid than men, who render other service equally arduous, he believes they ought not to ask for pensions.

Some money ought to be found somewhere to fix up the roads a little bit. This doesn't mean that where ten dollars would put them in passable condition to spend a thousand. The trouble is heretofore repairing a road has meant the practical rebuilding of it and hence an enormous waste, with scant improvement.

IF WE MUST UNDERTAKE THE JOB

THE GENIAL CANDIDATE

If all men were only perpetual candidates for office, how grand a little world this would be! They fill the world with mellowness as they hike among us for our favor. Their handshake is more unctuous than a Methodist elder's in revival time. Their smile's more radiant than a May morning. They ooze honey like bees in clover time. They are the sunshine boys in July.

And you think they do this for effect? To win your vote? Never—and again, never! It's because they love us so. So that they're running for office only to help us—to make the world brighter and sweeter. The salary is merely a dim side issue. If it weren't for their families, who have to live while they labor for us in the trenches of office, they'd give the county back the money. And wouldn't it be a glorious old world if we were all candidates all the time—all of us smiling and sweet and social?—Raeine Cor. Pomeroy Tribune-Telegraph.

Samuel Gompers says the Carranza following represents the union labor element in Mexico. This is the first intimation that had been received associating Mexico with union or any other kind of labor.—Bluefield Telegraph.

Out of Illinois comes the story that a man was killed by hail stones, and what is more, the cadaver is there as evidence.

Oh, yes, it is going to rain again, sometime.

It is judged from the big deals in reality that the Peerless is not done growing by considerable.

The cat has come back. They are talking a good deal over town about which side of the street the cars should stop on.

Traction magnates met at Ironton last week, and assuagingly discussed the extension of a line up the river. Right here we hazard the guess that it will not be a great while before Portsmouth and Columbus are connected by traction—at least long before the Cincinnati-to-Pittsburgh project is realized.

This is excellent weather to repair the roads and they sure do need it sadly enough.

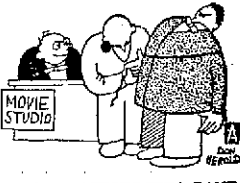

We don't take much stock in this talk that one of the main troubles in getting on a war footing will be the lack of officers. Was there ever a time in American history when the bigger jobs went begging, and that the fellow out of one couldn't fill it better than any other occupant, past, present or prospective?

Did the fireworks fail to explode, or did Teddy touch 'em off in the full noon day glare of bigger and better things?

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

WELL, THEN HE HAS A FINE EXPANSION

MOVIE ACTORS WHO PAINT We have never been up at sunrise but once. And we don't ordinarily go in for shooting, especially human shooting. But we would like sometime to attend a shooting at sunrise of all moving-picture actors who paint.

Why do they paint? Where do they get that?

Every time they get a letter they stand and paint. Then we are shown a close up of them painting some more. Paintbrushes for movie actors! Then they put the letter into the table drawer or into their bosom, and at the very sight of each other, they both begin to paint like a couple of suffocated fish.

We could stand the hero's curly hair and his Norfolk coat or his sport shirt open on his tily neck—if he would stay off of the paint as his favorite emotion. We could stand the vampire's broad arm and her paper-on-the-wall petticoats, if she only wouldn't paint.

Who will take the pants out of moving pictures?

(Protected by George Matthew Adams)

Mr. George W. Perkins is that happy the Progressive party is no more. Considering what it cost him to keep the puny bantling alive we can't grudge his delight.

More About The Orioles

AFTER WILLY WOODHART and his little mate had made the acquaintance of Lady Baltimore Oriole, they often climbed up that tree for a talk with her. And of course they soon met Lord Oriole himself, for Lady Oriole was so proud of him and of his good looks that she introduced him the first chance she had.

Perhaps you might think that such a mischief-loving little fellow as Willy would care nothing for a creature he could not tease. But you must remember that Willy never did any harm with his teasing. He just liked to move things around or play simple pranks like that and he liked the orioles none the less because he couldn't get into their nest and move their eggs!

"I certainly do think that that little Lady Oriole is the handsomest bird I know," said Willy one day as he watched her fly by, her black and orange feathers showing brightly in the sunshine.

"They both are beautiful," corrected Mrs. Willy. "His feathers are quite as pretty as hers—sometimes I think they are still handsomer."

Who's that you are talking about?" asked a voice so close at hand that the wood-rats jumped as guiltily as though they had been in mischief.

"The orioles," they answered both together. "But who are you?" They needn't have asked, for as soon as they got a good look they spied Miss Chameleon sunning herself at the edge of the fern patch.

"The orioles," she asked. "Indeed they are pretty. And they are as useful as they are pretty."

"Useful?" asked Mrs. Willy. "You mean they work hard for their babies?"

"No, that's not what I mean," said Miss Chameleon, as she rolled her eyes impressively. "Though to be sure they do take good care of their eggs and of their babies when the eggs hatch. What I meant was that they are useful to man—though many stupid folks don't realize it."

Willy hated to let his ignorance be known, but his curiosity got the best of him.

New York, July 1.—Senator Juan Gorgenez, a millionaire Cuban, has caused a mild sensation in New York with his peck-a-hoo suit. The coat is short sleeved and all riddled with holes for the zephyrs to amble through.

There was a politely suppressed but distinctly audible gasp of surprise as he stepped from the elevator into the lobby of the Hotel Majestic the first day when he exposed his back to view.

The senator's mainly chest and back were ornamental like the top of a cranberry pie or the sides of a latticed Italian garden. It was he later explained, a sandal suit, consisting of elbow sleeves and numberless openings in front and back to permit the passage of air, also a generous view of his pink and green striped shirt.

"Nent but not gaudy," he explained. But Fifth Avenue promenaders may decide that for themselves when it appears there with in the next day or so. The senator also wore sandal shoes. That is just the soles with one tiny strip across the arch. His socks were a light pink.

Arthur MacElrath, who is red, round and handsome, applied to a film concern for a position as press agent, and the manager said he wasn't the type. Thus the film concerns run to type even for their press agents. But why shouldn't press agents run to type?

In a short while electricity may be as free as water. It will be possible to hitch your auto to the sun and also your vacuum cleaner, your coffee percolator or your electric hair-tongs. A new way of putting Old Sol to work has been discovered by a young New Yorker. He is Theodore W. Case, who promises to be another Edison. He is only 26 and is the son of Willard B. Case, who is worth $20,000,000 or so. Despite the handicap the young man seems destined to be heard from.

He first announced his discovery before the New York Electrical Society. He doesn't promise too much but there are some big scientists who believe that he has really made a remarkable discovery.

Two miraculous cures were effected in New York the other day. George Drury, a mute, and James Murphy, a hopeless cripple, were the patients. Murphy stepped on Drury's toe and both were cured. That's all there was to it.

That is except they were sent to the workhouse for a period of convalescence. They appeared in Magistrate Corrigan's court. Drury used the sign language to tell he had not had a square meal for a week and that was why he was begging on Broadway.

Murphy lifted up a feeble voice to say that he was usually tied up in such a knot that he couldn't climb out of the ash barrel that was his home. He had, however, unravelled himself enough to get into the Grand Central station in beg.

He lifted a foot to show how helpless he was and dropped it on Drury's foot. "Ouch," shouted the deaf mute, "get off'n my foot, you great big sluh." Whereupon the cripple leaped forth like a wild gazelle for battle. Then the judge sentenced them to the workhouse.

Down on the Bowery, the pure food squad of the Board of Health found a saloonkeeper who serves three meals a day to any man who wants it. He has been doing it for years and no one ever heard of him. He said his mother requested that he do this bit of charity as she was dying and he has never given it up. It keeps him poor but very happy.

Some of the boarders have been coming to him for three years every day and two of his regular boarders have never spent a cent in his place.

The Weed and the Rose

A little weed grew at the foot of a rose. And they both breathed the same summer air; But the poor weed sighed as it looked at the rose, For the rose was so sweet and so fair.

At twilight the little weed trem-bly spoke, And it told of its love for the rose; The rose never heard; for the language of weeds is a language a weed only knows.

Then at night the little weed heart broken cried, And its tears washed the foot of the rose; And sweeter also grew, and her green leaves spread wide, Shutting out the sweet sunlight and air;

So the little weed died at the foot of the rose, And the rose never knew it was there.

"Oh, no," said Jake; "I already got dat safed up. Yas, I got money to go to te circus."

Liquid Evidence

A publican was prosecuted for selling a bottle of whiskey during prohibited hours. A bottle of whiskey was produced as evidence.

The jury heard the evidence and retired to the jury room. They presently returned.

"My lord," said the foreman, "the jury is quite satisfied as to the sale of the bottle, but they are not sure of its contents. May they have the bottle to satisfy themselves?"

"Certainly," declared the judge.

After a brief period the jury filed into the box again.

"Well, gentlemen, have you reached a decision?" asked the judge.

"No case, my lord," said the foreman. "There was not enough evidence to go round."

BRITISH OPEN NEW DRIVE

British Headquarters, in France, July 1—A tremendous British offensive was launched at half past seven this morning over a front extending twenty miles north of the Somme. The assault was preceded by a terrific bombardment. The British troops already have occupied the German front and have captured many prisoners. The terrific bombardment which preceded the attack lasted about an hour and a half. It is too early as yet to give any but the barest particulars of the fighting which is developing in intensity. The British casualties have so far been comparatively light, according to official report.

The artillery bombardment of the last few days was concentrated on the Somme, with the French co-operating to the south. At 7:30 o'clock, through clouds of smoke and dust, which hung over the whole field as far as the eye could see, the infantry sprang from the trenches for an assault over a front of twenty miles. The first line trenches and the advance is continuing. The new British trench mortars which fire 35 shots a minute, played a great part cutting wire entanglements and destroying trenches. Large numbers of prisoners have been taken. Some of the prisoners say the British curtains of fire prevented them getting food for the first five days. A British staff officer who witnessed the advance at the junction where the French and British lines met said the attack was launched as though the men were on parade. Simultaneously with the launching of the British offensive, French infantry advanced to the attack. This movement of French troops was inaugurated over a section of the French line adjoining the junction point with the British front.

CARRANZA CHARGES SCOTT AND FUNSTON WITH LACK OF HONOR

CHALLENGES NATION'S RIGHTS TO KEEP ARMY IN MEXICO

Surprise Expressed That U. S. Is Pained Over Tone of Note

Washington, D. C., July 1—Unless General Carranza's reply to the last American note demanding an explanation of his intentions arrives today and is as defiant as private advices from Mexico City have indicated, it is considered probable President Wilson will have to wait at least until next Wednesday before placing the Mexican situation before congress. The house planned to adjourn today over the Fourth of July, and its first session will be Wednesday.

It was plain that administration officials were impatient at the failure to receive any word of when the Mexican note might be expected, since the demand for a prompt reply went to Mexico early last Sunday. How much longer President Wilson would consent to wait was a subject of much speculation. Another indication tending to support the belief that the reply will be unfavorable was the memorandum given out yesterday by the Mexican foreign office. It specifically denied all the charges contained in the American note replying to General Carranza's representations for withdrawing of troops, and laid the blame for attacks on Americans in Mexico in the carelessness of the Americans themselves. It is untrue, the memorandum stated, that the Mexican authorities have protected bandits who raided American border communities, or have made small efforts to apprehend them.

Strong assurances may be given in the Mexican reply, it is believed by officials here of the defacto government's ability to protect the border against further raids. The Mexican embassy stated fifty thousand troops would be available for this service if the American line is withdrawn.

Mexico City, July 1.—The foreign office yesterday issued a memorandum in reply to Secretary Lansing's recent note, in which the correctness of assertions in the communication from Washington were repeatedly denied. The memorandum declares that the United States has no right to maintain its armed forces on Mexican soil.

The memorandum contains 35 counts. Although not in the form of a direct reply to the Washington note, it is considered equivalent to an answer to that document.

It expresses surprise that the Washington government should have been pained at the tone and contents of the Carranza document, since it maintains that the General Scott and General Funston are accused of bad faith and lack of honor in misleading General Obregon in alleged, evasive reply regarding the crossing of American troops into Mexico after the Glenn Springs raid.

The memorandum asserts that while it is true that the United States arrested General Huerta, the motive which prompted this act was not a purpose of aiding the Constitutionalist government, but because the United States feared that General Huerta was plotting with Germany.

The note concludes by declaring that the presence of American troops in Mexico invites rather than prevents bandit raids along the border.

The memorandum was issued at the same time that the foreign office authorized publication of Secretary Lansing's recent note.

The Memorandum In Part

In part the memorandum says: "It appears strange that the department of state of the United States should be displeased with the tone of the note of this government of May 22, which it terms discourteous, when the same department has addressed to the constitutionalist government not only, but many notes in tones not only discourteous but threatening."

"During the period alluded to in this note 148 Mexican citizens have been murdered in American territory by American citizens and even by the authorities of the United States, this despite the fact that both nations were in a state of profound peace and in none of these cases, despite repeated remonstrances by the Mexican Ambassador at Washington, have any of the guilty been exemplarily punished."

Accusations Are Denied

"It is untrue that the Mexican government has protected in any instance criminals attacking American territory. The Mexican government has done all in its power to protect foreign subjects. The fault lies with foreigners, especially Americans who insisted on remaining in disturbed districts despite the repeated warnings of the Mexican government. As our own citizens have suffered severely on account of the condition of affairs, it is hardly just that foreigners should expect to be indulged."

At the American-Mexican Boundary Fence—The "Makings" of Peace

Patrolling boundary lines is a lonesome job and it's no wonder the patrols on both sides of the fence frequently indulge in friendly intercourse. Here we see a Yankee soldier, himself always plentifully supplied with tobacco, generously sharing his "bul" Durian with a Carranzista. While the Mexican is not as neat and natty as the American the former seems to be far better equipped with ammunition.

The note cites the case of Charles Watson, one of the victims of the Santa Isabel massacre, who, it states, insisted on making the fatal journey despite a warning from General Trevino, the military governor of Chihuahua.

Says Authorities Were Warned

"It is a fact," the note states, "which the American military authorities cannot deny, that on March 16 General Gavira advised the latter that he had trustworthy intelligence that Villa and his bandits were on the way to the frontier. He also warned them that Villa was going by way of Las Palomas, thus giving the American authorities ample time and

"No War" With Mexico Until There Is No Other Alternative For Settling Border Troubles"

—PRESIDENT WILSON

New York, July 1—President Wilson under it plain in his speech at the New York Press Club banquet last night that he will not countenance a war with Mexico until there is no other alternative for settling the border troubles.

Again he declared that he was ready to sacrifice his own political fortunes in order to carry out his convictions as to what would be the just course to pursue.

The president's audience, composed of newspaper men, state and municipal political leaders and other prominent in public life, signified their endorsement of his position by repeated outbursts of applause. When he asked if the glory of America would be enhanced by a war of conquest in Mexico, shouts of "No" came from all parts of the banquet hall. A similar response was made to his query whether it is America's duty to "carry self-defense to the point of dictation into the affairs of another people."

The president dwelt also on his efforts to serve the whole people, thousands of whom, he said, are appealing to him to maintain peace as long as possible.

"I have constantly to remind myself," he said, "that I am not the servant of those who wish to enhance the statue of their Mexican victims, but that I am the servant of the rank and file of the people of the United States."

Must Be Prepared

"Of course, it is our duty to prepare this nation to take care of its honor and of its institutions. Why debate any part of that, except the details, except the plan itself, which is always reliable?"

"Of course, it is the duty of the government, which it will never overlook, to defend the territory and people of this country. It goes without saying that it is the duty of the administration to have constantly in mind with the utmost sensitivity every point of national honor."

"But, gentlemen, after you have said and accepted these obvious things, your program of action is still to be formed. When will you act, and how will you act?"

Impulsiveness Brutal

"The easiest thing is to strike. The brutal thing is the impulsive thing. No man has to think before he takes aggressive action, but before a man really conserves the honor by realizing the ideals of the nation, he has to think exactly what he will do, and how he will do it."

"Do you think the glory of America would be enhanced by a war of conquest in Mexico? Do you think that any act of violence by a powerful nation like this against a weak neighbor would be right of the United States?"

"Do you think it is our duty to carry self-defense to a point of dictation into the affairs of another people? The ideals of America are written plain upon every page of American history."

Appeals for Peace

"I get a great many letters, my fellow citizens, from important and influential men in this country, but I get a great many other letters. I get letters from unknown men, from humble women, from people whose names have never been heard and never will be recorded, and there is but one prayer in all of these letters: 'Mr. President, do not allow anybody to persuade you that the people of this country want war with anybody.'"

"I got off a train yesterday, and as I was bidding goodbye to the engineer, he said in an undertone, 'Mr. President, keep out of Mexico.' And if one man has said that to me, a thousand have said it to me as I have moved about the country."

"If I have opportunity to engage them further in conversation, they say of course, we know that you cannot govern the circumstances of the case altogether, and it may be necessary, but for God's sake, do not do it unless it is necessary."

Moral Forces Strongest

"I am for the time being the spokesman for such people, gentlemen. I have not read history without observing that the greatest forces in the world and the only permanent forces are the moral forces. We have the evidence of a very competent witness, namely the first Napoleon, who said that as he looked back in the last days of his life upon so much as he knew of human history, he had to record the judgment that force had never accomplished anything that was permanent."

"Force will not accomplish anything that is permanent. I venture to say in the great struggle which is going on on the other side of the sea. The permanent things will be accomplished afterward when the opinion of mankind is brought to bear upon the issues, and the only thing that will hold the world steady is this same silent, insistent, all-powerful opinion of mankind."

"Force can sometimes hold things steady until opinion has time to form, but no force that was ever exerted except in response to that opinion was ever a conquering and predominant force."

"I think the sentence in American history that I, myself, am proudest of is that in the introductory sentences of the Declaration of Independence, where the writers say that a due respect for the opinion of mankind demands that they state the reasons for what they are about to do. I venture to say that a decent respect for the opinions of mankind demanded that those who started the present European war should have stated their reasons, but they did not pay any heed to the opinion of mankind, and the reckoning will come when the settlement comes."

Verdict of Mankind

"So, gentlemen, I am willing, no matter what my personal fortunes may be, to play for the verdict of mankind. Personally it will be a (Continued On Page Four)

FROM NEITHER ANGLE

A doctor of some note is forward with the suggestion that all prescriptions be written in English, instead of Latin designations. He offers as desirable for the change that in plain English there would be less liability to the fatal errors that sometimes occur under the present practice. This sounds reasonable, but no great importance should be attached to it.

Where a pharmacist makes a deadly mistake in compounding this is not through inability to decipher the hieroglyphics of the physician, but through carelessness. Any clerk ought to have and in these days the laws see he does have, enough general knowledge of drugs to know their assumed effects. Certainly, he ought to have knowledge of those that are actively poisonous. If he misreads a prescription as calling for a deadly ingredient he ought to have sense enough to realize the mistake and refuse to compound that particular prescription. So the matter of language of the prescription is not really essential and it might better be left just as it is. For in the first place the patient is better satisfied in paying for something that is altogether a sealed matter to him and in the second place a large portion of the efficacy of medicine consists in the state of mind of him who takes it. He believes medicine will help him, is more firmly convinced it will because he is taking something that is all a mystery to him.

THE BETTER WAY

Anticipating that its militia company would be called to the front, Hamilton proposed to get upon a great public demonstration on its departure to show "the boys" that the folks back home gloried in them and would hold them in fond and proud memory while they were battling for the flag.

The captain of the company, however, seems to have the sensible courage, out of which the real fighting soldier is made, and he suggested, that if the citizens really wanted to show their appreciation of the service "the boys" were about to render their country, the better way would be to cut out the general flubdub and donate to the company the sum the demonstration might cost, in order that its members might be supplied with small articles, not included in the governmental accoutrement, that would add vastly to their comfort and welfare. Of course the merit of the suggestion was recognized and the big blow off canceled, and the company's private purse enriched with a substantial sum that is far more eloquent of appreciation and helpful than any demonstration could possibly have been.

If the people at Washington feel they do not know how to run a war the experts from almost any newspaper office are at their beck and call.

Ohio troops are concentrating and may be they too will be ordered to the border. The only surprising thing is that they are not there already for the old commonwealth is ever at the fore in peace and was never known to let anybody cut ahead of her in war.

We are not much given to pedestrian speed ourselves, but our judgment is that the Austrians will beat the Russians to the Carpathian mountains.

And so far we fail to hear the clarion voice of one Richard Robson. Can it be it has become so tuned to the dulcet of the chautauqua that it can no longer be used for its country's alarm?

We are not going to ask is it hot enough for you?

The traction line is to get to Franklin Furnace this week, and thus the day is near dawn that Ironton will wake up and find herself the blessed suburb of a real live city.

The optimist is busy building a street car line around Cole's boulevard, but we don't see any of the poles strung yet.

The good Dr. Fess is sorely hurt that that rugged old war dog, General Kiefer, having taken on a new lease of life, is a candidate against him for congressional nomination. The good doctor should know that no politician can be so saintly that some other ancient relic of a politician will not covet his job.

Just think. Congress has got to toil and toil through the broiling summer and the people have got to stand for it all.

Representative Gray, of Indiana, is one congressman that isn't afraid to stand up and be counted. He tells the postal employees of his district that he is not in favor of pensions to government civil service employees. Aye, he goes a bit further and says, that as a rule, being better paid than men, who render other service equally arduous, he believes they ought not to ask for pensions.

Some money ought to be found somewhere to fix up the roads a little bit. This doesn't mean that where ten dollars would put them in passable condition to spend a thousand. The trouble is heretofore repairing a road has meant the practical rebuilding of it and hence an enormous waste, with scant improvement.

IF WE MUST UNDERTAKE THE JOB

THE GENIAL CANDIDATE

If all men were only perpetual candidates for office, how grand a little world this would be! They fill the world with mellowness as they hike among us for our favor. Their handshakes are more unctuous than a Methodist elder's in revival time. Their smiles are more radiant than a May morning. They ooze honey like bees in clover time. They are the sunshine boys in July.

And you think they do this for effect? To win your vote? Never—and again, never! It's because they love us so. So that they're running for office only to help us—to make the world brighter and sweeter. The salary is merely a dim side issue. If it weren't for their families, who have to live while they labor for us in the trenches of office, they'd give the county back the money. And wouldn't it be a glorious old world if we were all candidates all the time—all of us smiling and sweet and social?—Lucine Cor. Pomeroy Tribune-Telegraph.

Samuel Gompers says the Carranza following represents the union labor element in Mexico. This is the first intimation that had been received associating Mexico with union or any other kind of labor.—Bluefield Telegraph.

Out of Illinois comes the story that a man was killed by hail stones, and what is more, the cadaver is there as evidence.

Oh, yes, it is going to rain again, sometime.

It is judged from the big deals in reality that the Peopless is not done growing by considerable.

The cat has come back. They are talking a good deal over town about which side of the street the cars should stop on.

Traction magnates met at Ironton, last week, and assumably discussed the extension of a line up the river. Right here we hazard the guess that it will not be a great while before Portsmouth and Columbus are connected by traction—at least long before the Cincinnati-to-Pittsburgh project is realized.

This is excellent weather to repair the roads and they sure do need it sadly enough.

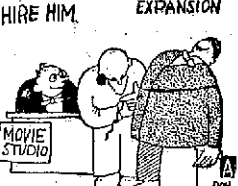

We don't take much stock in this talk that one of the main troubles in getting on a war footing will be the lack of officers. Was there ever a time in American history when the bigger jobs went begging, and that the fellow out of one couldn't fill it better than any other occupant, past, present or prospective?

Did the fireworks fail to explode, or did Teddy touch 'em off in the full noon day glare of bigger and better things?

WELL, THEN HE HAS A FINE EXPANSION

MOVIE ACTORS WHO PAINT

We have never been up at sunrise but once. And we don't ordinarily go in for shooting, especially human shooting. But we would like sometime to attend a shooting at sunrise of all moving picture actors who paint.

Why do they paint? Where do they get that?

Every time they get a letter they stand and paint. Then we are shown a close-up of them panting some more. Pulmonators for movie actors! Then they put the letter into the table drawer or into their bosom, and at the very sight of each other, they both begin to pant like a couple of suffocated fish.

We could stand the hero's curly hair and his Norfolk coat or his sport shirt open on his lily neck—if he would stay off of the pant as his favorite emotion. We could stand the vampire's broad arm and her paper-on-the-wall petticoats, if she only wouldn't pant.

Who will take the pants out of moving pictures?

More About The Orioles

AFTER WILLY WOOP-SAY and his little mate had made the acquaintance of Lady Baltimore Oriole, they often climbed up that tree for a talk with her. And of course they soon met Lord Oriole himself, for Lady Oriole was so proud of him and of his good looks that she introduced him the first chance she had.

Perhaps you might think that such a mischief-loving little fellow as Willy was would care nothing for a creature he could not tease. But you must remember that Willy never did any harm with his teasing, he just liked to move things around or play simple pranks like that and he liked the orioles none the less because he couldn't get into their nest and move their eggs!

"I certainly do think that that little Lady Oriole is the handsomest bird I know," said Willy one day as he watched her fly by, her black and orange feathers showing brightly in the sunshine.

"They both are beautiful," corrected Mrs. Willy. "His feathers are quite as pretty as hers—sometimes I think they are still handsomer." "Yes, that you are talking about," asked a voice so close at hand that the wood-rats jumped as guiltily as though they had been in mischief.

"The orioles," they answered both together. "But who are you?" They needn't have asked, for as soon as they got a good look they spied Miss Chameleon running herself at the edge of the fern patch.

"The orioles?" she asked. "Indeed they are pretty." "Indeed they are useful as well," said Mrs. Willy. "You mean they work hard for their babies?"

"No, that's not what I mean," said Miss Chameleon, as she rolled her eyes impressively. "Though to be sure they do take good care of their Mr. Cooter, and they scurried to eggs and of their babies when the safety!"

"Eat caterpillars," said Miss Chameleon

ter of his judgment and he asked, "What do they do that's so useful?" "Eat caterpillars," said Miss Chameleon, "and bugs and all sorts of creatures that fly or crawl and that destroy trees and plants. In the summer time the orioles eat almost nothing but insects and caterpillars and all through the year more than half their food is the very creatures men mean to be rid of! Oh, the orioles are useful—there's no doubt!"

But the sentence was never finished, for just at that very minute, a thud, thud, thud, thud, and a thump, thump, thump, thump was heard. Nobody needed to ask what that noise was! They knew it was sure they took good care of their Mr. Cooter, and they scurried to eggs and of their babies when the safety!"

O.O. MEINTYRE.

New York, July 1.—Senator Juan Gorgenz, a millionaire Cuban, has caused a mild sensation in New York with his peek-a-boo suit. The coat is short sleeved and all riddled with holes for the zephyrs to auble through.

There was a politely suppressed but distinctly audible gasp of surprise as he stepped from the elevator into the lobby of the Hotel Majestic the first day when he exposed his back to view.

The senator's manly chest and back were ornamented like the top of a cranberry pie or the sides of a luttit Italian garden. It was he later explained, a scandal suit, consisting of elbow sleeves and numberless openings in front and back to permit the passage of air, also a generous view of his pink and green striped shirt.

"Neat but not gaudy," he explained. But Fifth Avenue promoters may decide that for themselves when it appears there with in the next day or so. The senator also wore sandals shoes. "That is just the soles with one tiny strip across the arch. His socks were a light pink."

His first announced his discovery before the New York Electrical Society. He doesn't promise too much but there are some big scientists who believe that he has really made a remarkable discovery.

Two miraculous cures were effected in New York the other day. George Drury, a mute, and James Murphy, a hopeless cripple, were the patients. Murphy stepped on Drury's toe and both were cured. That's all there was to it.

That is except they were sent to the workhouse for a period of convalescence. They appeared in Magistrate Corrigan's court. Drury used the sign language to tell he had not had a square meal for a week and that was why he was begging on Broadway.

Murphy lifted up a feeble voice to say that he was usually tied up in such a knot that he couldn't climb out of the ash barrel that was his home. He had, however, unravelled himself enough to get into the Grand Central station to beg.

He lifted a foot to show how helpless he was and dropped it on Drury's foot. "Ouch!" shouted the deaf mute, "get off'n my foot, you great big slob." Whereupon the cripple leaped forth like a wild gazelle for battle. Then the judge sentenced them to the workhouse.

Down on the Bowery, the pure food squad of the Board of Health found a saloonkeeper who serves three meals a day to any man who wants it. He has been doing it for years and no one ever heard of him. He said his mother requested that he do this bit of charity as she was dying and he has never given it up. It keeps him poor but he says that it has made him very happy.

Some of the boarders have been coming to him for three years every day and two of his regular boarders have never spent a cent in his place.

The Weed and the Rose

A little weed grew at the foot of a rose. And they both breathed the same summer air; But the poor weed sighed as it looked at the rose. For the rose was so sweet and so fair.

At twilight the little weed trem-blingly spoke, And it told of its love for the rose; The rose never heard; for the language of weeds Is a language a weed only knows.

Then at night the little weed heart-broken cried, And its tears washed the foot of the rose; And sweeter she grew and her green leaves spread wide, Shutting out the sweet sunlight and air; So the little weed died at the foot of the rose, And the rose never knew it was there.

SECTION HAND KILLED BY AN N. & W. EXTRA

Andy Howard, 35, N. & W. section hand of Lucasville, met almost instant death Saturday morning about 9:15 o'clock, when he was struck by N. & W. extra 1394, east bound. Howard was filling in gravel along the ends of ties and must have thought himself in the clear when the engine came speeding along and hit him. His skull was crushed, the body being thrown along the track for a short distance. The accident took place opposite the Tom Noel farm just north of Rosemont Road.

Ancient Egyptians.
The race or breed of the men who built the pyramids is and will probably remain an ethnological mystery. They were not white nor black, nor has it been possible clearly to identify them with the Turanian or Arab race. We simply do not know the kind of people they were. They were probably a mixture of many breeds.

According to the other section men, the accident was the result of carelessness on the part of Howard who had plenty of time to get out of the way of the train. He kept at work near the end of the tie and must have thought himself in the clear. The side of the pilot of the engine hit him, knocking him to one side from under the wheels of the engine. Fellow laborers rushed to him, and moved him to the side of the roadbed, where he died in a few seconds.

Undertakers Hartman and Son, of Lucasville, were called to take charge of the remains and prepare them for burial. Coroner J. W. Daehler was called and he gave a verdict of accidental death. Howard is well known as a track laborer, and is widely known in Lucasville, where he has lived for about five years. He leaves a wife and two children.

Rome, June 30 via Paris, July 1.—The following official communication was issued today: "Italian torpedo boats and seaplanes reconnoitering in the Gulf of Trieste, Tuesday, were attacked by coast batteries and two groups of enemy seaplanes. The latter were put to flight and it is believed that several of the machines were hit. The Italian units returned undamaged."

How to Steal a Cow.
One of Daniel O'Connell's clients, who was acquitted upon a technical point of stealing a cow at night, was asked by O'Connell how he managed to steal the fastest cow in the dark. "Why, then, I'll tell your honor the whole secret of that, sir. Whenever your honor goes to steal a cow always go on the worst night you can, for if the weather is very bad the chances are that nobody will be up to see your honor. The way you'll always know the fat cattle in the dark is by this token—that the fat cows always stand in the most exposed places, but the lean ones always go into the ditch for shelter."

BORROWING TROUBLE.
Worrying over tomorrow's troubles is borrowing trouble. It is impossible to lift the ton weight at one time, but lesser parts of it may be easily carried until the whole load has been conveyed to its destination. So the burdens of a lifetime cannot be borne if crowded into a single day.

Why Not Push It?

Len Schloss, of the Brandon Bank and Stationery Company, had considerable trouble with his new touring car Friday night, when he stopped in front of the Cut Rate drug store on Gallia street. The engine refused to start and the machine had to be towed to the garage.

"That suits me. I have a piece of a shirt that the last wash shop sent back."—Litchmond Times-Dispatch.

Foxhounds.

Bond Issue May Be Asked To Supply Funds For The Mexican Situation

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Treasury officials were busy today figuring the treasury's net balance for the fiscal year which ended last midnight with a view to determining whether a bond issue will be necessary to care for the extraordinary expenses of the Mexican crisis. There is an agreement between administration leaders to ask congress to authorize such a bond issue in the event the ordinary resources of the treasury and the additional $210,000,000 expected from the administration revenue bill are not sufficient.

The expenses incident to the Mexican emergency already provided for are estimated at approximately $125,000,000. This, as well as any further expense would be covered in the proposed bond issue. Authority to issue bonds may not be sought from congress if the treasury supply is large enough. This should be known.

Say Mexican Troops Loyal
"It is absolutely untrue that Mexican troops have been guilty of disloyalty as imputed in the note of the department of state. The Mexican government could no less than consider improper the presence of American troops on Mexican soil, since the original orders were given to them were according to the American press to undertake immediate pursuit of the Villa bandits and return to their encampments."

"It is also true that the Constitutional government protected American troops against the just indignation of the populace of Parral, who were aroused by their presence."

matter of indifference to me what the verdict of the month of November is, provided I feel any degree of confidence, that when a later jury sits I shall get their judgment in my favor. Not my favor personally, but in my favor as an honest and conscientious spokesman of a great nation."

can immediately and that the bandits were dispersed. "The imputation of the American government that the Constitutional government had no desire to put an end to these attacks is untrue. It is well known that the affair at Parral resulted from the imprudence of the commander of the American troops, who entered the town well knowing the Mexican commander had not given his consent."

"The United States has undertaken to abuse the terms of agreement, as all its acts show evidently that it did not wish to confine itself to the pursuit of the bandits."

The Brotherhood

Attendance at the Brotherhood shows signs of suffering from the "summer slump." While this is inevitable and must be endured, it need not be allowed to develop into a chronic disease. If you must be away from the city twice a month, come to the class when you are in town. The time is nine, and the place is the rectory's office, next to All Saints' church on Fourth street, and all men are welcome. Suppose you drop round on Sunday morning away from the city twice a month, will find Trinity church a cool and home-like place.

ARE DIVINE PURPOSES BEING CARRIED OUT

The local class of International Bible Students' Association has arranged for Pastor F. T. Marion, of Cincinnati, to speak at the Temple Theater Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. While Mr. Marion will be new to the Temple platform, he is by no means a novice, either in Bible study or Bible lecture work, having travelled very extensively in this work, and his services being very much in demand.

The subject Sunday afternoon will be "Is God or Satan Winning?" and it is a subject that will be of much interest to all. If the Divine purposes are being carried out, why do we find the race of mankind in so deplorable a condition, sin-cursed, subject to disease and death, and torn with strife, war and contention? If the Divine purposes are not being carried out, why not? Does the great Creator lack Wisdom and power to plan and execute? These are questions which have perplexed all thinking persons, and these questions will be exhaustively discussed and satisfactorily answered. It is claimed by Mr. Marion in this lecture.

The lecture Sunday will be in the nature of a sequel to Pastor Shull's lecture of a month ago, and no doubt many will be out to hear the speaker on this theme. As usual, everything will be free and no collection will be lifted. Meet Me At Nye's Fountain. 127
